Shelby Man Dies of Traffic Injuries; 10 Hurt

DEATH BOOSTS COUNTY'S TOLL FOR YEAR TO 3

Fractured Skull Fatal to War Veteran 48 Hours After Cars Collide.

AGED PEDESTRIAN INJURED

John Guise, 81, May Lose Leg as Result of Accident; 4 Hurt as Car Overturns.

Traffic injuries cost the life of Raymond L. Bloom, 48, Shelby World war veteran, while at least 10 other Richland countians were hurt in accidents over the week-end as thousands of motorists jammed the highways to take advantage of the ideal weather.

Bloom, who succumbed at 1:15 a. m. Sunday in Shelby Memorial hospital of injuries suffered early Friday, was the county's third traffic victim of the year. At the same time last year, six persons had been killed in county traffic.

This date last year—6

Despite the heavy travel, only five Ohioans were reported killed in week-end mishaps and two of them died in accidents outside the state.

Most seriously injured in a series of accidents in the county was John Guise, 81, of R. D. 6, Mansfield, who suffered fractures of his right leg and head injuries at 9 p. m. Sunday when he was struck by an automobile near his home on route 42 south of the city.

Still Unconscious.

The aged man had not regained consciousness at General hospital today, and doctors said it may be necessary to amputate his injured leg.

Guise was struck by a car driven by Richard Beer, 21, of R. D. 5, Mansfield, deputy sheriff said, when Beer attempted to pass another car. Guise was walking on the edge of the highway.

Bloom, a native of Crawford county, died 48 hours after his skull was fractured in the col-

Want To Reduce? Try First Menus On Women's Page

An overly stout lady once commented that the only things ever included on reducing diets are things one doesn't like and that's how the pounds are removed. Maybe she was correct about the old-fashioned diets pursued by our less fortunate sisters, but she never saw the new 30-day medically-approved diet, written by Juliet Shelby, health and beauty expert, and beginning in the News-Journal today.

On the Juliet Shelby diet you can have such things as apple pie, cheese, steak, chicken, stew, melons, all kinds of fresh fruits and vegetables, sherbet, roasts, toast sandwiches, and gelatine desserts. Of course you don't get these all at once, but who could eat them anyway? You see, you don't have to subsist on pineapple and lamb chops.

Read today's article by Miss Shelby and then watch for the menus for the first five days of the diet period, appearing on the women's page.

TVA CHAIRMAN TO FIGHT, CLAIM

Friends of Morgan Say He'll Defy Roosevelt If He Asks Resignation.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Declarations that TVA Chairman Arthur E. Morgan would reject any presidential demand for his resignation came today from his friends, shortly before a White House showdown on the three-year-old feud among TVA directors.

Associates said Morgan had determined to stand pat on his refusal to document charges against his colleagues outside of a congressional inquiry.

This refusal, they predicted, might lead President Roosevelt to demand his resignation or to seek his ouster.

The president, who had asked the three TVA directors to back up their charges and counter charges against each other, gave Chairman Morgan until 1:30 p. m. to answer "yes or no" as to whether he was willing to proceed in the inquiry.

A negative answer, Mr. Roosevelt said, would prove the TVA head guilty of contumacy—disregard of authority.

The president told Chairman Morgan after he had refused to testify last Friday:

"On the face of the record as it stands today, the charges of the other directors that Chairman Morgan has obstructed and sabo-

FEAR 6 DEAD

Rivermen Hunt Missing After Raft, With 50 Aboard, Sinks.

MUNCY, Pa. —(U.P.)— Rivermen grappled in the swift current of the Susquehanna river tod / for the bodies of six men believed drowned when the 112-foot "Last Raft" crashed into a concrete bridge pier Sunday and hurled 50 persons into the water.

W. C. Van Scoyoc, 66, Philadelphia, was dead when rescuers lifted him from the river.

The Raft, symbol of the logging industry which vanished when the railroad supplanted canals and rivers as freight carriers, struck the railway bridge with the full force of the swift current before the crew could bring the unwieldly craft under control.

Spring Arrives Officially, And 'Behaves Like a Lady'

'Glorious First Day' With Temperature At 70, Brings Budding Trees, Talk of Fishing, and Even Golf.

All of those stories of spring harbingers—the first robin, the first mushrooms, sprouting lilac bushes and budding trees—were justified today when spring made its official bow at 1:45 a. m., and "behaved like a lady."

With a temperature around 70 this noon, it was a glorious "first day of spring," and citizenry responded in various manners. A few ardent fishermen compared notes on their catch yesterday along the Walhonding and Black Fork; a debonair ensemble of palest gray suit and hat was worn by a young man who had that gay in-the-spring-of-the-year look.

Packages of grass seed in store windows, crocuses and hyacinths pushing their leaves through the damp ground, displays of seeds for vegetable and flower gardens—all joined in the pageant of spring today.

Mild, Dry Winter.

The winter just passed has been one of mild temperatures and dry weather, with little zero weather and short-lived snows. The last two days of winter were unusually warm; Saturday's highest temperature was 69, while Sunday came in with a 51 degree low mark and a high of 67. The average of 55 for the week-end was 17 degrees above the average, according to Otto Sprunger, Mansfield weather observer.

The winter weather varied from four degrees below zero on Jan. 28 to 67 degrees on Feb. 13. There were no sustained periods of zero weather after Dec. 22, which marked the beginning of winter. The coldest "spell" was the first three weeks of December, which brought the average temperatures for that month slightly below normal. January, with its several cold

SEEK CAUSE OF STEAMER BLAZE

Five Wardens Comb Ruins of Lake Ship, 'City of Buffalo.'

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Fire wardens today searched the ruins of the lake steamer City of Buffalo in an effort to determine the cause of a fire that cause $700,000 damage as the old passenger steamer lay at her dock here.

The blaze, starting in the after hold of the ship, was brought under control after firemen from 14 companies fought it three hours.

The City of Buffalo, famed as a "honeymoon ship" was built in 1896. It has been in Lake Erie service since it was commissioned.

PHOTO FINISH

ERIE, Pa.—(AP)—Death snapped a photo finish for Frederick Carter, high school freshman and photography enthusiast.

He went to the railroad tracks with schoolmate Lawrence Fiesler to take a head-on shot of an oncoming train.

The train rushed by as Feisler, busy taking a side view snapshot, heard a scream. Carter had failed to leap aside in time.

Austria Out, Berlin Note Tells League

GENEVA—(AP)—The League of Nations today announced receipt of notice from Berlin that Austria "no longer is considered" a member of the international body.

Joseph Avenol, secretary general of the league, said, however, that the usual two-year notice must be complied with before Austria's withdrawal is completed.

PASS NAVY BILL

House Sends Huge Defense Measure to Senate.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The house today passed and sent to the senate a bill authorizing the greatest fighting fleet in the history of the United States.

Designed to carry out President Roosevelt's request for a 20 per cent increase in America's naval fighting strength, the bill authorizes additions to raise U. S. fleets to a total of 1,500,000 tons at a cost of $1,121,546,000.

The measure specifically authorizes 46 new combat ships, 22 naval auxiliaries and 950 airplanes to bring the navy's aerial arm to 5,0000 fighting planes.

JAPS DOOM CITY

SHANGHAI—(INS)—The fall of Suchow, and with it the end of Japan's greatest military campaign since the Shanghai-Nanking push, was imminent today as a sudden stroke brought a Nipponese column within 19 miles of that vital junction of the Lunghai railroad.

EMPIRE STARTS 2ND NEW UNIT

Mechanized Plant Placed In Operation; Upturn Noted In Steel Industry.

The second of three new mechanized units at the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company plant went into operation at noon today and a third is expected to be placed in service as soon as business demands require it, according to James M. Hill, president of the company.

Installed at a cost of $250,000, the three units, including furnaces, rolling mills and auxiliary equipment, are among the most modern in the steel industry and will speed up production at the Empire plant, Hill said. The first unit has been in operation since Friday.

Despite a slight increase reported in the steel industry in other sections of the middlewest, Hill said the Empire plant will begin its fiscal year today with production still far below normal.

The Mansfield plant has not shared in the business upturn reported today by the magazine "Steel." Hill said there had been no noticeable gain of a permanent nature although there have been slight fluctuations in some departments.

The International News Service quoted the magazine "Steel" as saying that the national operating rate in the steel industry rose two points to 32 per cent during the last week, making conditions the best of the year.

Two Ohio centers reported decreases in operations during the past week. Youngstown dropped two points to 27 per cent, and Cincinnati went down seven points to 25 per cent, the magazine said.

PLEA REJECTED

3-Judge Court Stands Pat on Police Killer's Death Order.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— A three-judge common pleas court, rejecting a plea for a new trial, decided today that Carl Boettcher, 24, of Cleveland, must died July 29 in the Ohio penitentiary electric chair for the Feb 4 slaying of Detective Robert Cline.

HANGS FORMER O. S. R. INMATES

W. Virginia to Execute Pair Tonight Along With Aid In Kidnap-Slaying.

Two former inmates of the Mansfield reformatory, convicted with an ex-convict of the kidnap-slaying of Dr. James I. Seder, one-time head of the West Virginia Anti-Saloon league, will be hanged tonight at Moundsville, W. Va., in the second triple execution in the state's history.

The two former inmates are John Travis and Orville Adkins, both 25, who with Arnett A. Booth, 46, an ex-convict will go to the gallows at 9 p. m.

The doomed men lost their last chance to escape death when Gov. Homer A. Holt at Charleston, W. Va. refused to act on written plea from Booth that the lives of his co-kidnapers be spared because they had been "talked into" helping him kidnap and hold for $50,000 ransom the noted dry leader.

Dr. Seder, 70, a retired minister of Huntington, W. Va., was kidnaped from his home last Nov. 1. His abductors demanded $50,000 ransom, which was never paid. On Nov. 11, Dr. Seder was found in an abandoned coal pit in a weakened condition from cruel treatment and exposure at the hands of his kidnapers. He died in a Huntington hospital of pneumonia and shock.

Booth, alleged leader of the plot, with Travis and Adkins were tracked down by department of justice agents, confessed and convicted in a little more than a month after their capture

ITALIANS ACT

Send 4,000 Troops Home as Concession to Britain.

ROME—(AP)—The first detachment of Italian troops withdrawn from Libya as a concession to Britain came home today, and informed sources predicted that a British-Italian friendship accord would be concluded by Saturday.

Almost 4,000 officers and men which had helped garrison Italy's North African colony disembarked at Naples.

Informed persons said the accord would provide for British support of recognition for Premier Mussolini's Ethiopian conquest through the league of nations and withdrawal of all Italian combatants from the Spanish civil war through the 27-nation non-intervention committee.

CONVICT TRIES TO ESCAPE AT PAROLE INQUIRY

Former Mansfield Inmate Had Been Summoned as Witness By Special Grand Jury.

ANKLE BROKEN IN JUMP

Seized by Officials After Being Hurt In Vain Dash For Freedom.

A former Mansfield reformatory inmate, called as a witness before the special Franklin county grand jury investigating parole conditions, leaped from a window in the statehouse annex at Columbus today in a dramatic but vain attempt to escape, Associated Press dispatches to The News-Journal said.

The witness was Lee Frieberg, an Ohio penitentiary convict. He was recaptured when he injured himself in the jump.

Went to Wash Room.

Frieberg is serving a 10 to 25-year term for robbery. He had been called as a witness when Atty. General Herbert S. Duffy reopened the parole inquiry after a recess of several weeks. Upon being brought to the hearing room, Frieberg asked to go to a wash room. When his handcuffs were removed, he clambered from the window onto a second-story coping and jumped approximately 12 feet to the sidewalk.

He struck a parked car and tumbled to the pavement, where A. S. Frazier, an investigator for the grand jury, and George Payne, statehouse parking lot attendant, held him.

Prison guards rushed outside and seized him. They said apparently he had suffered a broken left ankle.

Came Here in 1932.

Frieberg was sentenced to the reformatory here on Dec. 4, 1932, charged with the robbery of a Cleveland baking company, and was taken to Ohio penitentiary in Columbus on Dec. 10, 1934.

His record there showed that he had served terms in Elmira, N. Y., reformatory, and Sing Sing prison.

Duffy said the Franklin county grand jury would probably finish up today and then start work on its final report. He declined to say when the special Richland county grand jury, seated in January and recessed about three weeks later, would be called back. The investigation has lagged since the legislature failed to appropriate $20,000 to continue it.

Quit Cabinet In Protest On Polish Stand

Two Lithuanian Ministers Opposed to Ultimatum, Resign Offices.

(By United Press)

KAUNAS, Lithuania — Foreign Minister Stasys Lozoraitis and Minister of Justice Stays Silingas tendered their resignations today because of their dissatisfaction with the government's acceptance of Poland's ultimatum on restoration of diplomatic relations.

President Antanas Smetona rejected the resignations and it was assumed that he was attempting to persuade the ministers to withdraw them.

Far reaching changes in the country's political front, possibly involving the resignation of Smetona himself, were forecast.

It was undertsood that the government was considering whether to send a note to the great powers and the league of nations citing Lithuania's legal claims to the Vilna area, which lay at the bottom of the 20-year dispute with Poland, and asserting that these claims had not been altered by the forced agreement with Poland.

Rumors Unconfirmed.

Various reports were that nearly every minister in the cabinet had offered his resignation or was about to do so, but there was no confirmation of the reports.

Undoubtedly the feeling throughout the country was one of humiliation, particularly because the Polish ultimatum — whether intentionally or unintentionally— expired on St. Joseph's day, the name day of the late Marshal Josef Pilsudski whom Lithuanians regard as the instigator of the long Polish-Lithuanian estrangement, in that they hold him responsible for Poland's occupation of the Vilna territory.

A statement by Col. Josef Beck, Polish foreign minister, that the acceptance of Poland's ultimatum left neither victor nor vanquished, was read here with wry smiles. But outwardly the country was quiet. There were no manifestations or demonstrations. But political leaders were crestfallen and silent. Most of the people generally seemed relieved that at least the danger of war with an overwhelmingly more powerful neighbor, had been averted.

From Warsaw came word that Poland intends to maintain an army massed on the Lithuanian frontier until diplomatic relations have been established in keeping with its ultimatum.

Three divisions, totaling 50,000 men, paraded yesterday at Vilna, 10 miles from the frontier, and similar demonstrations were planned. Officially, they are "normal army maneuvers" but it is understood their end will coincide with

ORDERS BALLOT AT FIRESTONE

Labor Board Sets Election for CIO, Independent Decision.

AKRON —(INS)— The national labor relations board today announced a 24-hour election to select a bargaining agent for workers in the Firestone Tire and Rubber company.

The election will be held from 9 a. m. March 29 until 9 a. m. March 30. The choice in the election will be between the CIO's United Rubber Workers of America and an independent group, the Firestone Employes Protective association.

A scheduled election in which members of the U.R.W. in B. F. Goodrich company plants here were to vote on a company wage cut and hour adjustment was called off by the union.

FALLS 100 FEET

Banker Critically Injured as Auto Plunges Off Bridge.

ST. PAUL, Minn —(INS)—Richard C Lilly, 51, multi-millionaire president of the First National bank and vice president of the world's largest chain bank system, was critically injured today when his automobile plunged off the high bridge here to the ground 100 feet below.

Police believe Lilly dozed at the wheel returning to his suburban home after a bridge party.

MURDER TRIAL OPENS

HAMILTON—(INS)—Selection of a jury to hear the first-degree murder trial of John W. Cline, 24, for the hold-up slaying of Aaron Laubach last Jan. 27, was to begin in common pleas court here today.

NO TAX RUSH

Today's Last Day; $95,000 Still Due, Says Kolb.

Although the deadline for paying the current installment of real estate taxes without penalty is 3:30 p. m. today, the anticipated last-minute rush had not descended on County Treasurer John E. Kolb's office at noon.

Based on the total collections of $505,000 up to this morning, there is still nearly $95,000 due on the first half charge. The total charge for the period is about $600,000.

Describing the collection as satisfactory, Kolb said there was no reason to extend the time.

"If property owners don't have the money for their taxes now, they wouldn't be likely to get it in two weeks, if we granted that much extension," he said.

He added that a number of mail returns probably will be received tomorrow, but said the penalty won't be added to payments mailed today.

DIES IN PLUNGE

Ohio Woman Drowned, 4 Rescued As Car Goes Into River.

EAST LANSING, Mich.—(U.P.)— Mrs Frances Deming, 65, Granville, O., drowned last night when an automobile in which she was riding with her daughter, two grandchildren and a neighbor's child plunged into Red Cedar river.

The other four occupants of the car were saved by state police who chopped a hole in the top of the submerged automobile and pulled them to safety.

Advises Leaving Drunkard

By VIRGINIA LEE

MRS. M. T. G.: As you are only 23, and have no children and IF what you say about your husband being drunk all the time is true, I should think the best thing to do would be to leave him and make your own living. If he threatens to kill you you can appeal to the police. It may be idle threats, but as he strikes you when he is angry, it is best to take no chances.

I say if what you tell me is true, because it is very easy to exaggerate a man's faults and make out a good case for leaving him when you admit that you love another man.

Didn't he drink before you were married? It seems as if you must either have been too much in love to notice his faults, or he must have changed a lot in the one year you have been married.

If you leave your husband and marry this other man, be very sure you really love him and that he is a good man before you wed. And then do your best to make a happy home for him. That is the best advice I can give you.

WONDERING K.: The fact that there is two years difference in your ages is not important. It is the fact that the boy is only 17 that matters. Boys of that age are seldom mature enough to stay in love for life. They like one girl today and six months hence they have a crush on some other girl.

The actions you write of seem to me to indicate that he likes you best at present, but that he is not old enough to be tied down to one girl. Go with him if you wish, but don't be surprised if he dates other girls. He should be going out with girls in his school. I doubt very much whether he will continue to want to go with you for four years.

I may sound heartless, but there is no use in you setting your heart on an affair with a boy of 17. He may have half a dozen crushes on as many different girls before he is ready to marry and settle down. I am merely warning you to try to save you heartache.

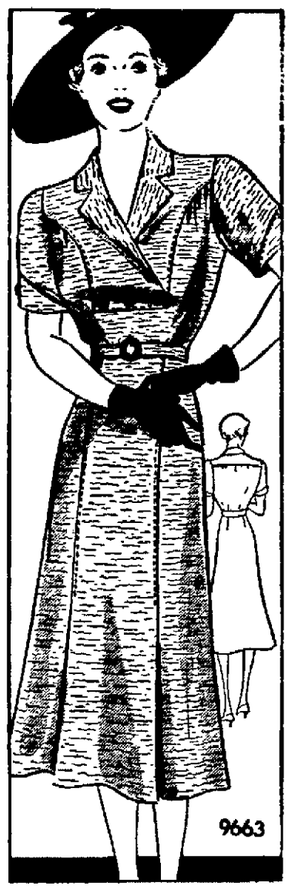

If a little ammonia is mixed with beeswax and turpentine used for polishing floors the wax will dissolve quickly.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, March 22.

ACCORDING TO the very active planetary operations, this should be a particularly lively and pleasant day. There may be interesting developments in connection with social and romantic engagements, with artistic and cultural affairs and many functions in affiliation with young persons and their welfare. All pertaining to writings, contracts, publishing, publicity and promotional enterprises should be keyed to liveliness and should thrive.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a very lively and pleasant year, with much claiming the attention in connecion with romance, sentiment and pleasure, as well as art, literature and all sorts of cultural advancement.

A child born on this day may be versatile and brilliant, with a rather fascinating personality, especially attractive to the young. It may be gracious, affectionate and cultured, and should make a great success of its life.

Here's Newest Thing In Diet Ideas

By JULIET SHELBY

(Central Press Writer on Beauty)

Here's the latest, and last word, in diets. You can have fun eating and still achieve that sylph-like figure!

Actually, this sets a new high because it makes you feel like a million dollars even while you're losing weight.

The word now is: "Have your proteins and grow thin anyway." And you can do it by way of this 1938, medically approved 30-day diet, the object of which is to make you healthy and keep you happy.

Your breakfast always should consist of a liberal portion of fruit, and a cup of black coffee. Nothing else. Choose any fruit that appeals to you, stewed or fresh. If you insist on cream and sugar in your coffee, use them sparingly. If you are hungry at 10 a. m., you may drink a glass of tomato juice or grapefruit; but this will rarely be necessary, for the meals outlined contain ample nourishment.

FIRST DAY: LUNCHEON—two eggs, poached or hard boiled; medium size tomato one glass fresh milk or buttermilk.

DINNER — Broiled steak, size and thickness of palm of your hand; order of string beans, lettuce and tomato salad, tea or coffee, as desired.

Second Day.

LUNCHEON — Large combination salad, two slices whole wheat toast, one slice pineapple, one glass fresh milk or buttermilk.

DINNER—Two medium sized broiled lamb chops, liberal portion of cauliflower-combination salad, tea or coffee.

THIRD DAY: LUNCHEON—Large serving cottage cheese on lettuce, sour cream dressing; one slice canned pineapple, one glass milk or buttermilk.

DINNER — Broiled whitefish (average portion), serving of green peas, combination salad, one baked apple, no potato, tea or coffee.

FOURTH DAY: LUNCHEON—Three medium slices broiled or fried calves liver, one slice tomato, one-half grapefruit, milk or buttermilk.

DINNER—Half boiled chicken, serving of Brussel sprouts, carrot, cabbage and pineapple salad, large portion; tea or coffee.

FIFTH DAY: LUNCHEON—Large salad of chopped cabbage, carrots, lettuce, celery, pineapple with sour cream dressing, two slices or whole wheat toast, milk or buttermilk.

DINNER—Glass of chilled tomato juice, average serving of lean roast beef, large serving spinach, one-half grapefruit, tea or coffee.

My Neighbor Says:

Flowering hedges like those made by using spireas, deutzias, and lilacs should be cut back at once when the flowering season has passed. Rather severe cutting is necessary if such hedges are to be kept in good condition. Next year's flowers are made from buds, which will be started this season, and unless the trimming is done early these buds will be cut off.

If you have a gas or electric refrigerator, try using fruit juices for ice cubes instead of water. They are very pretty in fruit beverages. Lemon cubes are lovely in iced tea.

Sliced bananas blend well with cooked cherries when used for filling baked tarts. They are good served plain or more festive when spread with whipped cream.

Left-over rice blends well with cooked meat and can be shaped into small cakes, browned in bacon fat and topped with tomato or mushroom sauce.

"The Authority on Authorities"

KNOW THE ODDS

A thorough player either knows the odds for and against the various idiosyncracies of the cards or else is a sound mathematician in estimating the more important ones. For instance, a plain finesse is usually about an even money chance, whereas the odds favor seven missing cards being divided four and three by better than even money. Thus if a straight choice is offered between a finesse and that distribution, it is better to count on the distribution.

North and South reached a contract of 6-Spades on this deal. South started with 1-Spade, North called 2-Hearts, South 3-Clubs, North 4-Spades, South 5-Diamonds and North 6-Spades.

When the diamond 2 was led, the 3 was played from dummy, East played the 10 and South the A. The declarer, instead of taking the heart finesse, immediately decided to attempt to set up that suit. The heart A was cashed and a heart ruffed. Next came a spade to the A and another heart ruffed. The spade J was played, followed by two more rounds of spades. On the heart Q, the diamond was discarded and on the heart 9 a club. After leads of the clubs A and K, one club trick was given up.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

At my question, epitomizing tragedy for me, Mary cocked her head to one side and eyed me quizzically. I knew that she was deliberately "playing down" the importance of the query, but her gamin impudence vaguely eased my nerve tension, nevertheless.

"So what?" she asked. "Suppose he did know about it, what would have been the logical thing for a perfect gent to do whether he were innocent or guilty? I will answer my own rhetorical question." She rose from her chair, threw herself into the generally accepted idea of an orator's attitude, and gestured flamboyantly toward me.

"He would draw the celebrated red herring across the well known trail," she said triumphantly. "He would get into communication with our gifted Mr. Milner, and between them they would conjure up the best yarn that was possible on such short notice. And he would do this with the very same thoroughness whether the drunken dame were an irate model getting even for discharging her, or some light-of-love who is pursuing him."

Unpleasant Alternative.

I winced at the latter alternative, and Mary promptly pounced upon my trepidation.

"You mustn't be so thin-skinned, Auntie Madge," she said with a gamin grin. After all, you're grown-up now, and ought to know the facts of life."

"I'm afraid I can't face them, Mary," I said despondently, and she came abruptly over to me, took me by the shoulders and shook me gently.

"To think that you'd take me seriously!" she apostrophized. "You must have lost your sense of humor completely. You know as well as I do that Uncle Dicky, in all probability, has some perfectly good, logical and true explanation of this episode, which he will proffer you when he has made himself certain that you won't receive him with a rolling pin in one hand and an ice pick in the other. After all, you can't blame a guy for not risking a kick in the slats when he comes loping up with a blue-ribboned explanation dangling from his wrist."

Forced to Laugh.

"Mary, Mary!" I expostulated feebly, but she nodded triumphantly, for she had evoked a reluctant laugh from me, and she was entitled to gloat.

Killingly Funny.

Perhaps no one but Damon Runyon could make four killings funny, but he manages this so adroitly in "A Slight Case of Murder", that when four gangsters kill each other, it becomes a highlight of comedy in the film which the Madison offers through Tuesday. Picture followers owe a lot to Runyon for he has authored many of the bigger hits, among them "Lady For A Day". Edward G. Robinson plays a comedy role, too, which is unusual for him, and in contrast to his most recent picture "The Last Gangster" in which he played a dark and tragic role.

Zorina's Debut.

Zorina, the ballet dancer who makes her picture debut in "Goldwyn Follies" is in reality Vera Zorina, a young Norwegian who has been a sensation in Europe and England for several years, dancing in Max Reinhardt's "Tales of Hoffman" and "Midsummer Night's Dream". Leonide Massine, director of the Ballet Russe and who was in Mansfield with the ballet last fall, saw her and engaged her for solo work with the Russian group, which is the most renowned ballet group in the world. She danced with them for several seasons and then came to America as a solo attraction, and it was in her New York engagement that Goldwyn saw her and engaged her for his Follies.

Famous Battle Filmed.

The Majestic returns to its three-a-week policy this week after trying a two-a-week for the past two weeks, and the mid-week bill, covering Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, features a re-issue of "Charge of The Light Brigade", with Errol Flynn and Olivia de Havilland. This is the film drama of the battle of Balaclava, known to every school boy because of its glorification in Tennyson's poem, "Charge of The Light Brigade".

Loy-Powell At Ritz.

M-G-M's merry but mad comedy, "Double Wedding," is the Ritz feature for three days, starting Tuesday. This will be recalled as the slightly insane story in which Myrna Loy, as a highly conservative and successful operator of a smart dress shop meets a gay and charming vagabond in an auto trailer—William Powell—who brings more excitement into a few days than she has known in her entire life, including a double wedding in the trailer in which everybody gets knocked down and tramped on, including the brides.

Welsh Rabbit, Other Cheese Recipes

By PAULINE SCHOFIELD
(Home Service Department of the Ohio Fuel Gas Company).

One of the world's most venerable and distinguished cheese dish is the Welsh Rabbit! For years the Welsh Rabbit in this country traveled incognito — as Welsh Rarebit. It seems that this change in name was the mistake of early American dictionary-makers, who have since corrected their mistake.

Since this is the period of the year when cheese dishes are favored, the family will welcome this recipe for a rabbit that never fails.

Cheese Rabbit.

1 tablespoon butter
½ lb. diced cheese
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
Few grains cayenne
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ cup cream or top milk
1 egg

Melt butter in a skillet; stir in and melt the cheese. Add seasoning. Add cream slowly. Remove skillet from fire and beat in the egg. Serve on thin hot toast.

Cheese Loaf.

2 C. grated American cheese
1 C. bread crumbs
1 C. mashed potatoes
2 Tablespoons chopped parsley
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon salt
2 eggs

Mix cheese, bread crumbs, potatoes, parsley, pepper and salt. Add beaten egg yolks and mix well. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Put into a greased loaf pan. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) for 20 minutes or until firm. Serve hot.

Chinese Omelet.

2 tablespoons butter
1½ tablespoons flour
½ cup milk
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
½ lb. American cheese, grated
2 cups cooked rice
3 egs

Make a sauce with the butter, flour, milk and seasonings. When thickened and smooth, remove from fire and add the grated cheese. Stir frequently until cheese is melted. Add rice and beaten egg yolks; mix well. Fold in beaten egg whites. Pour into a shallow buttered baking dish; bake in a moderate oven 350° until firm in the center—about 50 minutes.

Spanish Limas.

1 onion, chopped
1 green pepper, chopped
2 tablespoons butter
2 C. strained tomatoes
Salt, pepper and cayenne
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1½ C. grated American cheese
1 can lima beans or 2 C. cooked dry beans.

Fry the onion and pepper in the butter; add the strained tomatoes and cook slowly 10 minutes. Add seasonings, and beans which have been thoroughly drained. Simmer slowly 20 minutes. Put beans and grated cheese in alternate layers in a casserole. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 20 or 30 minutes.

Eggplant Casserole.

1 medium eggplant
5 tablespoons bacon fat
1 medium onion, sliced
1 large green pepper, sliced
3 medium tomatoes, sliced
Salt and pepper
1 cup grated American, or Parmesan cheese

Peel and slice eggplant in half-inch slices. Cut each slice into four sections. Saute in bacon drippings. Place in well greased casserole with alternate layers of sliced onion, green pepper and tomato. Sprinkle each layer with salt and pepper. Cover and bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven thirty minutes, or till eggplant is tender. Uncover. Sprinkle with cheese. Return to oven, five to ten minutes. Serves six.

Use adhesive tape to mend worn window shades. Use it, too, to patch together broken pieces of bric-a-brac.

Color, Appetite Appeal Can Be Achieved In Lenten Dishes

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
(AP Feature Service Writer)

IT'S AN ingenious hostess who turns to lighter, gayer foods for her mid-Lenten luncheon.

She'll take special pains to see that her dishes have a subtle flavor, are interestingly arranged and are pleasing in color.

On a chilly day she'll probably serve a creamy soup, an a la king mixture, a souffle or a fondue—as the first course.

She won't have to plan more than two courses if she chooses an interesting main course and a rather filling dessert.

Take creamed asparagus, for instance. Instead of serving it in the usual way try arranging a row of toast points around the edge of a platter. Top each with creamed asparagus. Fill in the center with little mounds of buttered carrots, green beans, Harvard beets and potato balls rolled in parsley. Sprinkle the vegetables with melted butter mixed with a little grated cheese, salt and pepper.

Try a salad. Put individual molds of frozen fruit or vegetable salad on cups of crisp lettuce. Have plenty of mayonnaise in a bowl nearby. Add a plateful of ginger muffins for a surprise.

Dice tuna fish or salmon, hard-cooked eggs, pickles and celery up together. Mix in a generous quantity of mayonnaise. Arrange each portion on fresh water cress and surround it with tiny cheese straws.

Stuff fresh tomatoes with cottage cheese seasoned with diced cucumbers, green peppers and nuts. Pass a bread tray full of warm orange bread.

If you want something a little more filling than salad substitute.

A macaroni and cheese loaf topped with creamed asparagus.

Corn souffle with creamed peas and tiny potato balls.

Creole shrimp with boiled rice.

Creamed mushrooms in a spinach ring—topped with grated cheese and a dash of paprika.

Crabmeat Salad.

1 package salad gelatin (aspic)
1 cup boiling water
2 eggs
1 tablespoon granulated sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon onion juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ cup flaked crabmeat
½ cup chopped celery
1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Dissolve salad gelatin in boiling water. Beat eggs slightly. Add sugar and salt. Add hot gelatin mixture slowly, stirring continually. Add onion juice and lemon juice. Chill until mixture begins to thicken then add crabmeat, celery and chopped parsley. Pour into mould and chill until firm.

Make the most of the spring fruits in your desserts.

Rhubarb or strawberry tarts are especially delicious at this time of year. So is old-fashioned strawberry (or rhubarb) shortcake. So is rhubarb cobbler with a lemon sauce.

Then there are chocolate, nut or strawberry souffle served cold with whipped cream; angel-food cake, strawberry and ice cream sandwiches; assorted chilled fruits and berries served with sandtarts (spice cookies;) chocolate roll covered with whipped cream.

Store lemons in a covered jar in the refrigerator. That will prevent withering and shrinkage.

Sewing Hints

Basting threads may be removed easily by clipping them at six-inch intervals and pulling them out with the blunt ends of scissors. In sewing snaps on garments sew all the halves on one side. Brush them over with chalk. Press against the other side of the garment and the chalk marks will show where each additional half should be attached.

Tune in "Editor's Daughter"—Each Week Day —WLW—6 p. m.

so you can see neighbors have been praising the and I am wondering why Servel can't make a cheaper gas refrigerator for families like ours, with limited means.
Very truly yours,
Mrs. C. J. Robie.

An Open Letter to Mrs. Robie Telling Why Servel Could—But Doesn't—Make a Cheaper Line of Gas Refrigerators . . .

Dear Mrs. Robie:

Your letter raises a question of interest to many housewives with limited budgets, and we are glad to answer it. The price of a gas refrigerator compares favorably with other first line automatic refrigerators, but Servel Electrolux has no second line. Why can't it make a cheaper line of refrigerators? This could easily be done, and we are listing only a few of the things that would lower the price.

Make the frame less sturdy. Reduce the gauge of steel in the cabinet and of copper in the freezing unit. Use thinner porcelain in the food compartment - cheaper finish on the cabinet. Lighten the hardware. Reduce the hundreds of factory tests 50 per cent. Eliminate safety and efficiency features. Remove the second cycle of refrigeration that furnishes reserve cold. Few would take the time to discover the difference between this cheapened model and the regular Electrolux. It probably would sell for about a third less, but we wouldn't want to sell it at any price!

We want you to expect full performance, safety and silence of a gas refrigerator year after year. Its low operating cost and absence of any moving parts to wear out in the freezing system make it the most economical refrigerator to own and operate. Most of the refrigerators we sell go to families, like your own, of limited means. If this answers your question, may we invite you to see our beautiful 1938 models? Ask how you can pay for one out of the savings it will make for you.

Most sincerely yours,
The Gas Company

The letter at the top typifies a question. The signature is fictitious. If there is a person by this name, it is a coincidence.

Oil Companies to Fight Property Seizure In Mexico

DECREE COSTS U. S. INTERESTS HEAVY LOSSES

Injunctions to Be Sought In First Move to Combat Order By Government.

(By United Press)

MEXICO CITY— Foreign oil companies announced today that they would start injunction proceedings as the first move of their fight to regain $400,000,000 in oil properties siezed by the government, diplomatic proceedings would be the second step.

It was estimated that American business interests already had lost millions of dollars through the decree suspending dealings in the gold and foreign exchange issue coincident with the seizure order.

American Ambassador Josephus Daniels said that the oil companies were expected to exhaust every legal means of defending their property.

"What should be done after recourse to Mexican law is a matter for the state department," he said, as regards American companies.

Rush Court Plans.

Executives of the foreign oil companies, announcing their injunction plans, said that their lawyers would decide the grounds to be cited and then file briefs as soon as possible. It was believed they would plead that the expropriation law under which the seizure was affected—on the ground the companies were "in rebellion" against court orders to raise wages—was unconstitutional.

For the present the oil industry was paralyzed, American business was nearly paralyzed and oil company workers were in control of all company offices throughout the republic.

Dispatches from oil centers reported a mass flight of American and British oil company employes with their families.

Generally, the oil country was quiet and orderly, it was reported —with the workers having seized control of the plants.

Shortage Fears Grow.

Fear of an oil shortage was acute. The Department of National Economics sought to supply all filling stations, which were besieged by automobile owners, and sent inspectors to check on any over-charging.

It was estimated that food prices had increased at some places by 20 per cent because of the gold purchase decree. Many merchants refused paper money for purchase in which they would have to give change in silver and nickle.

Blind Preacher Seeks Gift Eyes From Doomed Men

SAN FRANCISCO—(U.P.)—Rev. U. E. Harding, a blind preacher, announced today that he would seek the permission of the state of California to solicit the gift of a pair of eyes from one of the 12 men awaiting execution in San Quentin prison.

Harding had heard of recent surgical transplanting of sound cornea tissues from one eye to another and was given hope that his own sight could be restored by such means. This hope, he said, had been supported by San Francisco eye specialists.

"Perhaps one of these men who must die will be good enough to give me sight, so I may live to the fullest extent," Harding said. "I know that society would feel that the man who volunteered would be redeeming himself before the world."

HEART AILMENT PROVES FATAL

Urges Slash In Surtax On Large Incomes

Up and Down THE STREET

When the Ohio State university concert band presents the first concert in its annual spring tour tonight in the Galion high school auditorium, included among its personnel will be one Mansfield student, Leo Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Brown, 46 Woodland avenue. Brown is one of four string bass players in the band.

One vagabond dog knows that the world isn't so cruel to animals as it sometimes appears to be, for he tied Saturday traffic into a beautiful snarl, and received not even a reprimand for it. The mongrel attempted to cross at Third and Main streets but became so confused by cars that attempted to dodge him that he gave up, and just sat down in the middle of the street. With cars and pedestrians all around him, he refused to budge until it occurred to him that he might find sanctuary under a nearby car. He crawled under it, and stayed there until a sympathetic hand pulled him out and guided him to the curb with nary a boot nor sharp word.

When Mrs. Albert Twitchell gave her organ recital at First Presbyterian church yesterday afternoon, she had one listener who would have been a compliment to any artist. Margaret Twitchell, who attends Cleveland Art institute, came home for the week-end to attend her mother's concert, and brought with her Miss Margery Clark of Montour Falls, N. Y., a classmate, who also wanted to hear the recital. Soon after her arrival Saturday night, Miss Clark fell at the Twitchell home and broke her arm. Nothing daunted however by pain or inconvenience, she was at the recital yesterday with her arm in bandages and splints, and was a most enthusiastic listener.

When the story of the Mansfield band's trip to the Bluffton district contest was written Saturday, with all the nerve-wracking transportation mishaps and long waits, the name of one "martyr" was omitted. Superintendent W. L. Miller had promised to meet the three special buses upon their return at midnight and help transport children to their homes. Unaware of the fact that the Mansfield youngsters had been held up for hours both in getting to Bluffton and in competing, he went to the bus terminal at midnight, the designated hour, and waited, and waited. Four hours later the buses arrived, but a very tired superintendent was on hand to greet the students.

NEW BATTLE GRIPS SENATE

Administration Proposal to Abolish Comptroller Draws Opposition Blasts.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — An administration proposal to abolish the comptroller general's office split the senate anew today in its long controversy over the government reorganization bill.

Senator Byrd (D-Va), fighting the provision, contended that substitution of an auditor general would remove safeguards against illegal expenditure of federal funds until the money was paid.

Senator Byrunes (D-SC) countered with the assertion that "no business concern has an auditor keeping its books and auditing his own accounts," as he said the comptroller general now does.

The new auditor general, Byrnes declared, would provide a thorough check on expenditures. The budget director would handle other functions of the comptroller general's office.

While the house was getting ready for a final vote on the billion-dollar naval expansion program, the senate was called into session (at 11 a. m.) in an attempt by administration leaders to hasten the reorganization bill, but they would not concede final defeat.

Senator Clark (D-Mo) said he thought there was "a good chance" to obtain sufficient votes to send the bill back to committee. This would be tantamount to shelving it for this session.

FATHER OF 12 PAYS WITH LIFE FOR MASS KILLING IN PENNSY

(By United Press)

BELLEFONTE, Pa.—Martin J. Sullivan, 72, father of 12 children and grandfather of 23, was put to death in the electric chair of Rockview penitentiary early today.

He entered the execution chamber on steady legs, following Father F. P. McCreesh, who had helped him prepare to die. The harsh light, as he sat in the chair, revealed watery eyes dimmed by age, and aged flesh hanging in folds at the throat. He said no word except to give the responses to the priest's prayers, and he relaxed as the electrodes were attached.

Sullivan was a policeman of Duquesne, a suburb of Pittsburgh.

In the spring of 1936, the parents and relatives of Antoinette Vukelja, 12, charged that he had made a sexual attack on her and had him arrested. There were court hearings at which the Vukeljas determinedly pressed their charges and Sullivan denied them.

The night of Dec. 17, 1936, Sullivan took his service revolver and went hunting for the witnesses who had testified against him. He killed Mrs. Mary Vukelja, Antoinette's mother, Milan, her brother, Mrs. Laura Bacon, a social worker and Joseph Benda and his wife, Helen, parents of an 18-year-old girl who had kept house for Sullivan. He tried to kill Joseph Vukelja, Antionette's father, but his bullets missed Vukelja's vital parts and he recovered.

Taken to jail, Sullivan shouted: "I'm satisfied, even if I did miss one." That night, police saved him from a mob.

DIES AT AGE 84

William H. Strine, Hayesville, Was Ashland Native.

HAYESVILLE—William Henry Strine, 84, a native of Ashland county, died of pneumonia Sunday morning at his home here.

Born near Jeromesville, Oct. 7, 1853, Mr. Strine spent his entire life in Ashland county. Surviving are his wife Leora; five children, Mrs. Nellie Roberts and Mrs. C. E. Shoemaker both of Hayesville, C. C. Strine of Loudonville, Wade of Hayesville, and M. A. Strine, R. D. 4, Mansfield; 22 grandchildren, and seven great grandchildren.

THE TUTTS— By Crawford Young

U. S. CHAMBER SEEKING CUT OF 35 PER CENT

Undistributed Profits Tax Repeal, Revision of Capital Gains Levy Also Sought.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The United States Chamber of Commerce recommended today that the maximum surtax on large individual incomes be reduced to 40 per cent from the present 75 per cent.

The latter rate now applies to net incomes of more than $5,000,000 a year Chairman Harrison (D-Miss) of the senate finance committee has suggested the maximum tax might be reduced to 60 per cent.

In a statement prepared for Harrison's committee, the chamber also suggested repeal of the undistributed profits tax and further revision of the capital gains. The house modified both of those levies in its general tax revision bill.

Seek Broader Base.

Besides cutting surtaxes, there have been suggestions for broadening the income tax base. Senator Borah (R-Ida) told reporters he found strong sentiment for the proposal in a canvass of his colleagues.

"I oppose it," he said. "They are trying to shift the burden of taxes on the low income class least able to pay."

The chief problem facing the senate committee is how taxes can be modified to encourage business expansion and investment without curtailing federal revenue. The treasury has asked that the tax bill raise $5,330 000,000 a year.

The house removed from the measure a proposed surtax on closely-held corporations. The senate committee is expected to take out the undistributed profits tax and substitute a flat-rate capital gains levy for the present sliding scale.

If the committee changes these two levies to please business, however, it will incur the opposition of the administration and will cut down the amount of revenue obtainable

Committee members therefore are considering fixing flat rates on corporation income and capital gains sufficiently high to make up funds lost in other categories.

PORTER RHOADES SUCCUMBS AT 84

Former Mansfield Railroader Dies at Home In Crestline.

CRESTLINE — Porter F. Rhoades, 84, former Mansfield resident and retired Pennsylvania railroad freight conductor, died at his home here Sunday following a lingering illness.

Mr. Rhoades was born in Seneca county Nov. 19, 1853, and came here from Mansfield 14 years ago. There are no surviving relatives. He was a member of the Eagles lodge and the order of Railroad Conductors.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Smith funeral home with Rev. S. A. Metzger, pastor of the English Lutheran church, officiating. Burial will be in Greenlawn cemetery.

Surviving are his wife, Susan and a brother, Lee Brinley of Detroit.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday at the Snyder funeral home in charge of Rev McKinley Sauder, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Burial will be in Lexington cemetery.

The Great Game of Politics

—By FRANK R. KENT

Paralyzed By Politics.

THE situation in Europe is so menacing that to a considerable extent it overshadows almost everything else. Certainly, the threat to civilization of another general conflict is such as to make discussion of domestic political events seem more or less trivial.

Nevertheless, the cold fact remains that it is domestic politics which paralyzes the American foreign policy, prevents it from acquiring stability, substance or a clear sense of direction. If this were not true—if our policy were logical and forceful, if it were not twisted by the politicians out of all semblance to an effective instrument, the chances of another great war would be lessened, the hope for peace strengthened.

IT IS customary for our governmental and legislative leaders to ignore these facts, but there are few thoughtful men among them who do not privately concede their truth. For example, there is general agreement that in the event of another European conflict, ultimately the United States will be drawn into it and, just as surely as in the last war, on the side of Great Britain and France. There are, of course, some persons —though not many—who believe we can preserve so complete a neutrality and achieve such foolproof isolation that the whole of Europe might go up in flames and leave us untouched.

HOWEVER, the overwhelming opinion is that once the war begins, soon or late our active involvement is certain. But even those who cling to the conviction that somehow we might escape active participation concede that there would be no escape for us from economic consequences of a collapsed Europe and that the effect here would be devastating. This being the case — and few deny it—clearly, it is vital to do what we can to prevent the smash from coming over there. Perhaps nothing we can do will avert it, but it seems incredibly unintelligent not to make the effort. It is too plain to argue that the one effective contribution we can make toward this end is through co-operation with the nations — Great Britain and France—whose purposes parallel our own and with whom, in the event of war, we are certain to be allied. It is too plain to argue that the prospects of peace would be enhanced by joining with them, letting it known to the world at large and to the aggressor nations in particular, that should war come, the United States will promptly enter on their side.

THERE HAS been much criticism at the lack of firmness and force upon the part of Great Britain in dealing with the crisis. Can anyone doubt that if it were known that this nation saw eye to eye with Great Britain, that in the event of war sure to affect us, this nation would be found fighting with Great Britain as before —can anyone doubt that this would immensely strengthen the British voice and promote a peace almost as vital to us as to her?

THERE would seem little doubt, indeed. Yet, such is the force of the deed. Yet, such is the force of the "No Entangling Alliance" appeal, so potent is the power of the "mind our own business" cry, so plausible the argument that we were unnecessarily dragged into the last war, and so gullible are people generally that it has been easy for those who abhor any form of international co-operation to create a sentiment which makes those in power afraid to advocate openly the sort of British-American understanding which they privately know to be the hope of the world.

OF THIS prejudice politicians of the Bill Thompson type for years have taken full advantage. It has been promoted by a certain number of sincere men in the senate and outside. It is an exaggerated prejudice but sufficient to keep those charged with forming and enforcing a national foreign policy from being openly realistic. Even in the Far East, where our interests are identical, and our purposes parallel, and where naval co-operation is a necessity, the utmost care has to be taken to avoid an appearance of understanding; and there are prompt denials when the charge is made that one exists.

THE THING does not make sense. It minimizes the influence we ought to have in world affairs. It prevents us from making our real contribution toward peace. Here is a nation in which the desire to keep out of war is overwhelming. Yet, such is the nature of our politics that the men responsible for guiding the country in foreign affairs are prevented from openly adopting the course they know to be best for protecting ourselves. It would be fine to have one of them speak out fearlessly and realistically on the subject. Secretary Cordell Hull came closer to doing it last Thursday than anyone else has done so far.

GAS HOUSE GANG BECOMES MYSTERY TEAM OF MAJOR LEAGUES

By DILLON GRAHAM
(AP Sports Writer.)

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — The Gas House Gang, as rough and rollicking as ever, is baseball's maybe club.

Maybe they'll win the National league pennant, and maybe they'll have a tough time nudging out the Dodgers, Phillies and Reds.

Only Two Fixtures.

Joe Medwick in the outfield and Johnny Mize at first base are fixtures, but even loquacious Frankie Frisch himself doesn't know who will be the others in his starting array. No other club in baseball finds itself with so many positions uncertain.

If Frisch's numerous experiments pan out the Cardinals will be strong flag contenders. But there are too many of those "ifs" to go overboard on the Cards.

Graham

Maybe Don Padgett, an outfielder, will catch.

Maybe Terry Moore, an outfielder, will play third base.

Maybe Paul Dean will pitch, and maybe he won't.

Maybe Enos Slaughter will be another Medwick, and maybe he'll flop. (He hit .382 for Columbus last season.)

Maybe another year of experience will show an improvement in the highly advertised catcher, Mickey Owen, and then perhaps he'll be as much of a disappointment as he was last year.

Maybe Sammy Baugh, the gridiron pitcher, will play third base, and maybe Art Garibaldi, Frenchy Bordagaray, Ott Stein or Joe Stripp will be on the hot corner.

Maybe Pepper Martin isn't as spry as he used to be.

Maybe Don Gutteridge will play short, or perhaps it'll be Jimmy Brown.

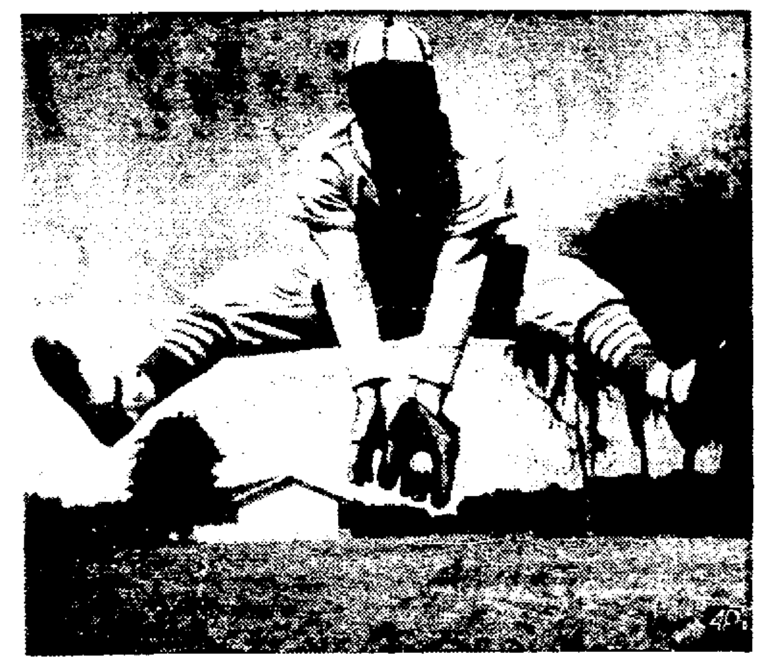

Maybe He's Ready.

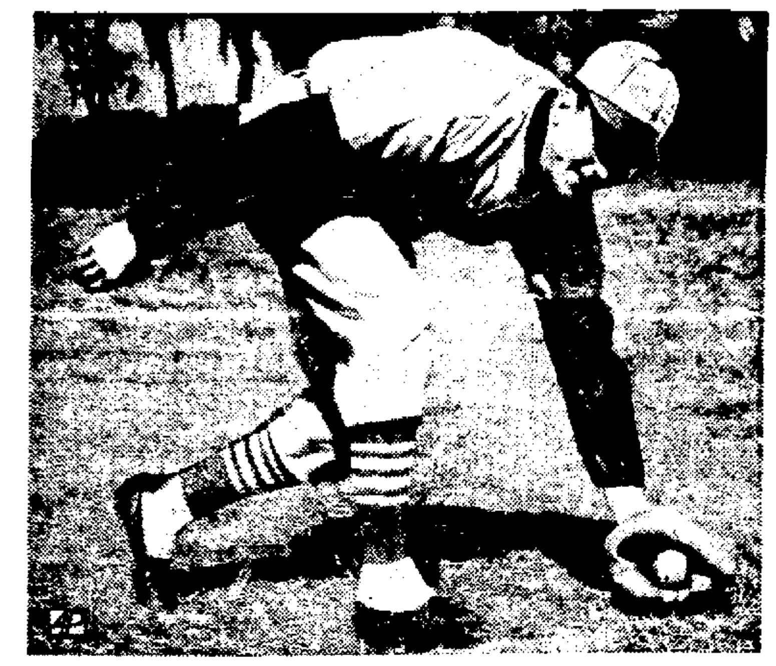

Maybe Stu Martin will be ready for second base.

Maybe those rookie tossers—Max Macon, Fibber McGee, and Howard Krist, will click and maybe they'll hop back to the American association.

It's no wonder Frisch runs around like a wild man, pulling his hair and jabbering noisely. It's enough to drive a guy nuts trying to keep up with these Cardinals.

PAUL DEAN . . . maybe he'll pitch.

DON GUTTERIDGE . . . maybe he'll play short.

TERRY MOORE . . . maybe he'll play third.

Newark Regains Throne

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohio's classiest high school basketball teams, their state tournament chores completed, were back in their home town classrooms today with Newark boasting the Class A championship and Canal Fulton of Stark county holding the Class B laurels.

Newark, winner of the crown in 1936, succeeded Hamilton as Class A ruler by beating New Philadelphia 28 to 27 in a thrilling finals game, after New Philly had eliminated the defending champions in a semi-finals clash. Canal Fulton romped into the Class B title with a 42-21 win over Enon of Clark county.

Sets New Record.

Robert (Buddy) Mercer of Newark, who weighs but 125 pounds, was the individual star of the tourney. He set a new tournament scoring record of 64 points in four contests, and got six of them in the last quarter of the finals game, after Newark and New Philly had tied at 20-20.

The three-day classic drew 34,194 paying customers, breaking the record set last year by 8,861 and insuring the competing teams of a cash bonus. H. R. Townsend, state high school athletic commissioner, said the bonuses would be awarded according to the number of rounds the teams remained in the tournament.

While Newark held the Class title, and New Philadelphia finished as runner-up, Massillon's great team which failed to reach the state meet had a claim to some kind of honor. The Massillons were the only team to beat Newark and New Philadelphia during the season, the champs finishing with a record of 24 and one, and New Philadelphia with 22 and 3, the defeats prior to New Philly's Saturday los sto Newark being at the hands of Massillon.

Won 25 In Row.

Canal Fulton, after dropping its opening game, won 25 in a row. On their victory march through the staff tournament the Fultons halted the winning streak of the defending champion Upper Arlington's at 31, and then wrecked Enon's fine record which had reached 30 victories and one defeat.

The "sudden death" overtime ruling was not used during the tournament, not a game going into the extra period. Commissioner Townsend said that next year the "sudden death" ruling would not be effective, but that extra full periods would be played in case of tie games.

Moose Keglers Upset Standings

ONLY one leader survived the bombardment in the third week-end of the Moose national bowling tournament at the Meder Recreation alleys.

The only exception was Lustek of Lorain, whose 771 withstood the lusty kegling Saturday and Sunday.

Detroit Team First.

The Detroit Mooseheart club gained the five-man lead with a 3205, bolstered by a 500 odd pin handicap. Jones and Reed of Columbus jumped into the two-man lead with a 1362 and Howard of Rockford, Ill, obtained first place in the all-events with a 2065 aggregate.

Only two of the previous leaders were able to maintain their positions among the first ten in the five-man. Moore's Recreation of Dearborn, Mich., last week's leader, was shunted to second place, and Cuyahoga Falls fell down to ninth place.

Mansfield No. 4 hurdled into third place with a 3054, and the Erie, Pa., Moose gained fourth with a 3051.

The leaders in the doubles department include all new duos with only two exceptions.

Allison and Miller of Kokomo, Ind., former leaders, were dropped down to fifth place, two points ahead of a Mansfield combination, Leroy Cleckner, a Commercial C league bowler, and Pete Linster, which shot a 1293.

Three of the previous leaders remained among the first ten in the singles. Govi, Aurora, Ill., first week's leader with a 700, dropped to seventh place.

Stout of Columbus led the individual scoring over the week-end with a 737 to jump into second place behind Lustek.

Error Changes Leaders.

An error in the compilation of handicaps wiped the singles and doubles leaders of last week off the boards. The corrections eliminated Slagel of Ft. Wayne, who was erroneously credited with a 803 in the singles, and he and his partner, Bob Hanson, with a 1336 in the doubles, from the leading ten in the minor departments.

Coaches Face Unbeaten Club

Richland county coaches will close their home basketball season Tuesday night when they tangle with the Sandusky high school faculty on the Madison high hardwood.

The Sandusky quintet has been undefeated since their organization six years ago, and the coaches will "shoot the works" in an effort to mar its record. The Sanduskians boast of two former All-Ohio college men in their lineup.

Kibler, Ontario, and Stearns, Butler, will be at forwards, Saltis, Adario, and Weikart, Lucas, at guards, with "Big Johnny" Rees, Lexington, at center. Rees, is the leading scorer of the coaches with 126 points in eight games. No admission will be charged.

Mystery Men Top A. B. C.

CHICAGO—(AP)—The Mystery Men of St. Louis rolled up a score of 3,035 last night as a target for other teams in the American bowling congress.

The Mystery Men were in first place by the margin of 45 pins over the Nabor A. C. of Chicago. Their score won the championship in past year, but it took 3,118 last time and probably will take more this year as the scoring continues at a rapid clip.

Nears End Of Schedule

Next to the final games in the Class B Church league will be played at the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday, starting at 7 p. m.

First Lutheran and Park Avenue Baptist, tied for first place, play at 7 and 9 p. m., respectively. The Lutherans meet Mayflower and Baptist faces Rirst Christian, which is two games behind.

Other games: St. John's vs. B'Nai Jacob, Central M. E. vs. First Presbyterian and First M. E. vs. South Main.

CITY LEAGUE OFFICERS, PILOTS MEET TONIGHT

The City Class A Basketball league meets at 7 p. m. today at the Y. M. C. A. to elect officers for the 1938-39 season. Chester Swank, league president, said that it is important that all managers and officials be present.

BOB'S GOOD HURLER, TOO

NEW ORLEANS, La.—(UP)—The magnetism of Bob Feller, the Cleveland Indians' schoolboy pitcher, had been demonstrated here again today.

A crowd of 9,188 fans turned out to see the husky Iowa youngster, oppose Carl Hubbell and the New York Giants in an exhibition game yesterday. Elsewhere in the "grapefruit circuit" major league clubs were playing to crowds bordering around the 2,000 mark.

Although Feller was not bearing down against the Giants he turned in a highly creditable performance in the four innings he worked. The Giants won the contest 8 to 7.

Allows Two Hits.

Feller gave up only two hits and walked two men while on the mound. Neither of the men he walked reached second base. The youngster struck out two batsmen.

When Feller left the box the Indians held a comfortable 4 to 0 lead, but his successors Mel Harder, Denny Galehouse and Al Milnar were not able to throttle the big bats of the New-Yorkers.

The Giants pummelled Harder for three runs in the fifth and four more in the sixth. The Indians had scored three times in the fifth and the count was deadlocked at 7 to 7 when Galehouse took over duties at the start of the seventh. He gave up one run and was charged with the defeat.

Outside Feller's performance, the outstanding play of the day was that of Ken Keltner, the Indians' rookie third baseman. Keltner secured three hits, two of which were home runs, and drove in five of the Tribe's runs.

EX-KING TO STRUT IN ARMORY RING

THE GREAT MEPHISTO and Frankie Hart will oppose each other in the top bout of a three-ply wrestling presentation in the Armory tonight. The program is being offered by the Mansfield Quality club.

Although the Hart-Mephisto tangle overshadows anything on the card, the remaining two bouts on the bill promise hot action. This should hold true in the semi-final engagement between Sterling Davis and Jack Claybourn.

Eddie Pope, North Carolina chiropractor, will try some of his bone-bending against Henry Hill, the veteran star from Salem, Ore. Hill has just recently returned to the midwest, forming a parallel with Pope, who has likewise been absent from these parts for some time.

The opener will be of 30 minute duration, the semi-final will be two out of three falls with a 45 minute limit, and the Hart Mephisto battle will go over the regulation hour-and-a-half period, with two falls to win.

The first match is slated to start at 8:30 and "ladies' night" will be observed. Members of the fair sex will be admitted free of charge if accompanied by escort.

QUIET BUYING LIFTS LIST AS TENSION EASES

Market Reflects Greater Hopes For European Peace In Early Trading.

NEW YOR K —Quiet buying lifted leading stocks fractions to 2 points in today's market.

Strength of foreign securities markets, reflecting greater hopes for European peace, was seen as a supporting factor.

Bonds and commodities, generally, pointed higher. Wheat futures, however, responded as usual to easing of war tension by declining.

Market analysts found encouragement in the survey of the magazine "Steel" which reported a further slight increase in demand for metal, although it was questioned how much of the betterment was due to seasonal influences and how much to business revival.

Lack of railroad purchases was seen as a prime handicap to mill activities, orders from this field being virtually absent since announcement of the freight rate boost.

SPRING ARRIVES, MERCURY AT 70

'Glorious First Day' Brings Budding Trees, and Talk of Fishing, Golf.

days, was one degree below normal, while February was one of the mildest in recent years, with an average temperature that was more than five degrees above normal and one degree above freezing point.

March came in lamb-like fashion and has behaved well since making its bow. Three warm days in a row have caused spring plants to shoot up, and lilac bushes are beginning to show green along the dark stems. A few of the more rabid golfers were out on the fairways yesterday and there were fishermen along all of the nearby streams.

Rising temperatures and fair weather of today, however, are destined to change to cloudy skies, light showers and cooler tomorrow, if you believe the weatherman—as who doesn't when the first day of spring runs true to form?

TVA CHAIRMAN TO FIGHT, CLAIM

Friends of Morgan Say He'll Defy Roosevelt If He Asks Resignation.

taged the work of the TVA must be accepted as true, Chairman Morgan having refused to offer testimony in denial of the charges."

Senator Bridges (R., N. H.), one of those demanding a thorough TVA investigation by congress, declared that "if any one resigns from the TVA, I shall demand the resignation of the other two directors."

(Besides Dr. Morgan, the TVA directorate includes Harcourt Morgan and David E. Lilienthal. Chairman Morgan accused the other two of "bad faith" and "official misconduct," and they countered with a charge that he sought to "rule or ruin" in TVA.)

Bridges contended there should be no resignations until a full and complete investigation of the agency had been made.

"Results of such an inquiry would determine whether any or all should resign," he said.

QUIT CABINET IN LITHUANIAN PROTEST MOVE

Two Ministers Resign Posts In View of Stand Taken on Polish Ultimatum.

the establishments of legations at Warsaw and Kaunas. A similar situation is planned as regards the fleet concentarted off Lithuania's coast.

Cavalry and tanks were prominent in yesterday's parade—a sign of the mobility of the frontier army—and 56 airplanes circled over the area.

Poland Satisfied.

Polish officials asserted that they were most satisfied with the outcome of their sudden demand on Lituania, and as regards angry public demonstrations termed "isolated instances."

In such demonstrations here yesterday, 435 persons were arrested as thousands tried to march to the foreign office to protest against the Lithuanian settlement. The crowd clamored for annexation of Lithuania.

Many students were in the demonstration, organized by the extreme nationalistic group. Orators demanded an immediate march on Kaunas.

Col. Josef Beck, foreign minister, is to address the senate Wednesday on the Lithuanian situation, and it was predicted he might suggest the formation of a Baltic bloc of nations including Poland, Lithuania, Esthonia, Finland and Latvia. In such a block, Lithuania would be expected to end her understanding with Russia.

Massacre of Jews Looms for Vienna.

(Editor's Note: Vienna faces what may prove to be "the world's greatest pogrom," H. R. Knickerbocker, noted correspondent of International News Service, discloses in the following graphic article.)

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
(INS Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright, 1938)

PARIS—What will probably prove to be the world's greatest pogrom in one of the world's greatest Jewish cities is now under way in Austria.

Especially in Vienna, where an estimated 800,000 non-Aryan men, women and children are hiding or fleeing in an effort to save themselves from Reichsfuehrer Hitler's anti-semitic storm troops

The figure 800,000 seems extremely high since only 200,000 orthodox Jews are registered in Vienna. But the Nuremberg laws apply to all persons having as much as one-fourth Jewish blood.

Intermarriage with Jews in Austria has always been frequent among the aristocracy and army officers and there is a much higher percentage of persons with Jewish blood in Vienna than there ever was in Berlin, Frankfort or any other German city.

That is one reason for severity of the pogrom which started with a score of suicides daily but which is certain to become far worse after the Nazi plebiscite

Austrian sources here provide an extensive list of victims of the Nazi terror, both Jewish and Aryan and including every class of prominent persons—aristocrats as well as politically active anti-Nazis

The category of suicides shows twenty-two famous names headed by former Vice-Chancellor Major Emil Fey, then Baron Odo Neustaedter-Stuermer, former minister of the interior; Professor Gustav Bayer with his daughter Helga, half a dozen other professors, a similar number of bankers and owners of Jewish department stores.

The actual number of suicides must be reckoned now at a minimum of fifty daily and the rate is constantly increasing.

The list of prominent persons arrested is more extensive even than the dead. It is headed by former President Wilhelm Miklas, former Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg and Baron Louis Eugen De Rothschild, although Paris friends of the latter insist he is free.

There is also Professor Loewy, winner of the Nobel prize, Professor Heinrich Neumann, surgeon to royalty, Rose Walter, daughter of the famous conductor Bruno Walter, and countless others.

All who worked to restore Archduke Otto of Hapsburg to the throne are suffering exactly like the Jews The leader of Otto's party in Vienna, Dr. Friedrich Ritter Von Wiesner, has been arrested. Also Dr. Hermann Oppenheim, president of the Union of Austrian Jews, and Dr. Desider Friedmann, president of the Israelite community in Vienna.

Plundering continues in Jewish stores, as amply confirmed by daily issuance of new orders from Nazi headquarters forbidding further pillage. Three times such orders were issued and on each occasion it was announced the crimes were the work of provocateurs.

But new orders require party organizations to deliver to the police any property they may have confiscated from Jews

The tragedy of the position of Jews in Austria is increased by the fact they cannot get out. For reasons psychological political and economic, the Nazis forbid these creatures whom they hate and despise to leave.

Friedell, Jewish Writer, Kills Self.

VIENNA—(U.P.)—Egon Friedell, 60-year-old Jewish writer, playwright and actor, committed suicide today.

Friedell, whose "history of world culture" was published in England and the United States, took his life by jumping from a fourth floor window.

The arrival at Linz today of Dr Hjalmar Schacht, president of the German Reichsbank, was believed to be the forerunner of economic conferences on the union of Austria and Germany.

A big portrait of the Duke of Windsor, formerly displayed in a most prominent place in the main sitting room of the Bristol hotel, where he has often stayed, has been removed to a less conspicuous place in favor of a picture of Adolf Hitler.

lision of two cars at an intersection on route 30-N, seven miles west of Mansfield.

Five other persons received minor injuries in the same crash which deputy sheriffs said occurred when Bloom drove his car onto the highway from a sideroad into the path of a machine operated by Hugh Palmer, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Bloom had lived in Shelby for about 20 years and was a member of the American Legion and the Moose lodge. He is survived by a half-brother, C. H. Berdner, of New Washington, and two aunts, Mrs Cora Weidemire and Mrs. Clara Brown, both of near Tiro.

Funeral Tuesday.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p m. Tuesday at the Dick and Dye Funeral home, Shelby, with Rev. D. B. Young, chaplain of the Shelby post, American Legion, officating. Burial will be in the Dickson cemetery, Vernon township, Crawford county.

George Biddle, jr., 19, of 75 Helen avenue, and his three companions, all of Shelby, were injured at 12:30 a. m. Sunday when a car driven by Biddle skidded on a curve and turned over along route 30, one mile west of Crestline.

Others injured in the accident were Miss Doris Jane Light, 20, Miss Mary Hursh, 18, and Ralph Hanno, 21. Biddle and Hanno were released from Crestline Emergency hospital Sunday after receiving treatment. The two young women were still confined in the hospital today.

The youths had minor cuts and bruises, while Miss Light suffered a sprained shoulder and minor cuts and bruises. Miss Hursh, a senior in Shelby high school, also had cuts and bruises. None was believed hurt seriously.

The four were en route to Shelby when the car overturned.

Leland Sorgen, 23, of Bellville, and Mary Cochran, Seventh avenue, were injured, neither seriously, at 11:55 p. m. Saturday when Sorgen's car collided with another automobile on route 42 in Lincoln Heights.

Sorgen, who is said to have swerved his car to avoid hitting a dog, suffered head injuries, and Mrs. Cochran received a fractured collar bone. Both were treated at the hospital.

"I'll tell you the difference I have found in cigarettes!"
SAYS WILBUR SHAW
record-smashing auto racing driver to BEN E. WILBUR, radio announcer

"Camel is the cigarette that agrees with me—the cigarette that lets me enjoy smoking to the full!"

"NOODLING" out a problem in auto design. And getting in a bit of smoking, doing it. "Camel's the mild cigarette," Shaw says.

SHAW is saying how important healthy nerves are to a racing car driver. "The fact that Camels don't get on my nerves scores a big hit with me," he points out.

"IT'S YOUR MOVE, Cathleen," says Wilbur to Mrs. Shaw, his checkers partner. His own move is to light up a Camel—"for digestion's sake."

Camels are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS —Turkish and Domestic

ONE SMOKER TELLS ANOTHER "Camels agree with me"

"Camels are preferred by the tobacco growers, who know leaf tobacco from the ground up"

according to the observation of tobacco planters themselves

"I'VE BEEN planting tobacco for twenty years," says Harry C. King, a successful grower. "Camel bought the choice lots of my last tobacco crop—paid more for my best leaf tobacco. So I know they use finer, more expensive tobaccos in Camel cigarettes. That's one mighty good reason why my cigarette is Camel."

THOMAS MIDDLETON and his twin brother James have been growing tobacco for 14 years "The Camel people bought up my best tobacco last year," Tom Middleton says. "They have for 12 years. When anyone talks about finer, more expensive tobaccos, that means Camels to me. I smoke 'em—my brother smokes 'em—and so do most of us around here who grow and know tobacco."

"DOWN AT THE tobacco warehouse they told me they'd never seen finer tobacco than my last crop," says J. E. Jenkins, veteran tobacco grower. "Camel bought all the top grades. It just shows that the Camel people make sure to get the choice lots of tobacco. I prefer Camels every time. I know what those finer, more expensive tobaccos in Camel cigarettes mean to smokers."

RECESSION HITS TAX RECEIPTS

County's Revenue From Sales Levy Falls $17,000 Since First of Year.

The business recession and resulting drop in sales tax receipts has cost Richland county and its sub-divisions more than $17,000 in funds for operating expenses since Jan. 1, according to County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe.

The figures, based on receipts for the same period last year, show that the county received only $4,800 in sales tax funds for the first two months of this year as compared with $22,000 in 1937.

Because of the small receipts in January and the diversion of funds for relief purposes, the county received no sales tax money for operating costs that month.

The February allocation, totaling $4,800, was ready for distribution today, Wolfe said.

Unless business conditions show marked improvement this spring, reducing direct relief costs and boosting allocations for general funds, the county and Mansfield and Shelby may be pinched for operating funds before the end of the year, Wolfe indicated.

WINS VERDICT

Greenwich Man Given $2,200 By Common Pleas Jury.

A jury verdict for $2,200 against Mrs. Blanche Simmons and Frank Holtz, of Plymouth, defendants in a $15,250 damage suit, had been returned in common pleas court today for Linus F. Phillips of Greenwich.

Samuel S. Holtz, third defendant in Phillips' suit, was not named by the jury in the judgment verdict.

The damages were for injuries received by Phillips last April when a tractor he was driving was involved in an accident with autobiles operated by Mrs. Simmons and Frank Holtz. The accident occurred in Shiloh.

Trial of the case required two days, during which seven witnesses testified.

Attys. Long, Anderson and Green of Shelby represented Phillips, while Attys. L. H. Beam, and Weldon and Huston comprised the defense counsel.

G. O. P. MOVES

County Headquarters Shifted to Mohican Building.

Removal of Richland County Republican headquarters from the Walpark building to the second floor of the Mohican building on West Third street was announced today by Ralph M. Hardy, chairman of the county G. O. P. central committee.

Hardy said the G. O. P. organization would set up permanent headquarters in the new location April 1, and all campaign activities will be handled there. Party offices have been in the Walpark building since last summer.

Selection of the new headquarters was in the hands of the house committee, composed of Municipal Judge G E Kalbfleisch, Atty. H. H. Schettler and Arliss F. Porter.

The Fellowship of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotion

By DR. WILLARD L. SPERRY

Monday, March 21. "So is the kingdom of God, as if a man should cast seed into the ground." Read Mark 4:26-29.

It is a generally accepted finding of New Testament study that the Gospels of Matthew and Luke were written later than Mark and made use of that earlier work, since the substance of Mark's work occurs almost word for word in Matthew and Luke. The most striking omission is the brief parable of the seed growing secretly. The only satisfactory explanation for its absence is that it seemed to the later writers so trivial as not to be worth copying. They "despised" this "small thing".

If so, they ran the risk of depriving us of one of the most pertinent passages in the Gospels Jesus was dealing with hot-headed disciples who belonged to a race that religiously and politically was highly inflammable. More than once he had to curb their impatience. We are living in much the same situation. Countless persons believe that, given this political change or that, "the Kingdom of God should immediately appear." A Christian ought to have a better historical perspective than that.

Prayer: Almighty God, who art the author and finisher of our Christian life, grant to us an unwavering purpose, an untired hope and a holy patience, which shall march with thy will, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Millions Are Fighting That Tired Feeling

Some people are always tired, no matter how much sleep they get. Often they are just suffering from constipation. For early fatigue, mental dullness, sleeplessness, sour stomach and its resultant bad breath, mental depression, the aggravation of most skin blemishes, can all be caused by it.

So keep regular. And if you need to assist Nature, use Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. This gentle laxative can help bring relief. Extremely important, too, is the mild stimulation it gives the flow of bile from the liver, without the discomfort of drastic, irritating drugs. That's why millions are sold yearly. All druggists, 15¢, 30¢, 60¢.

CHAPTER XXIII

Vasquez considered this.

Carmen leaned toward Murray, put her hand in his.

"Thank you, Murray," she whispered. "Dolores is my best friend. She loves me and I love her."

Murray pressed her hand. "I don't blame her," he returned the whisper, and looked into the girl's eyes, which fell before his. "We'll manage to help her, some way."

"Well, Vasquez?" he demanded. "It may be—" began Vasquez, and was abruptly interrupted.

Dolores swept past the guard at the hallway and entered the room.

Vasquez jumped to his feet.

"What are you doing here?" he snarled. "How'd you get here? Why?"

"Oh, merely curiosity, Vasquez," Dolores told him, laughing. "Why should a man desert his bride of a few hours? Surely I came to find my new husband."

Vasquez glared at her. Murray and Carmen looked at her with puzzled eyes . . . there was a timbre to her voice which belied the light jesting words. A tone that told them—as it must have told Vasquez—that she was up to something.

But what?

"I came in a car; didn't you hear it?" she asked Vasquez. "Yes, I came to see if my friend Carmen was here. And if so, to take her back with me. Perhaps you are displeased with her. But this is my wedding day, and you will not refuse me the company of my only girl friend, will you, my husband?"

There was still a jibe in her voice, and Vasquez looked at her suspiciously. Then he shrugged.

"Take her along, and get out," he said. "But keep her from sticking her fingers into my business any more, or I shall wring her neck. Understand?" Dolores nodded. "After all," continued Vasquez, "this gringo here is the only one I need."

Murray, studying Dolores, wondered why she had not escaped to the States after the forced marriage. But the answer came swiftly. Vasquez could charge her with a crime there as well as here. He would have to keep that in mind, when Vasquez released his wife.

"Come along then, Carmen," said Dolores, holding out her hand.

But Carmen remained motionless, shook her head.

"There is a matter to be thought of first," she said. "Tell your wife, Vasquez, the proposal that Senor Kilbourne has just made to you."

"Why?" growled Vasquez. "What business is it of hers? As her husband, I control her actions and affairs."

"True," assented Carmen. "Nevertheless, I think she would like to know that Senor Kilbourne has offered to buy her half of the mine—"

"Shut up!" shouted Vasquez.

"And turn the proceeds over to you, in exchange—"

"I told you—"

"For her freedom from you," concluded Carmen smiling defiance at Vasquez.

Dolores started. Looked from Carmen to Murray and back to Carmen.

"He did that, Carmen?" she said softly. She came forward and held out her hand to the American, who rose to grasp it, embarrassed by both words and deed.

"I thank you, Senor Kilbourne," Dolores said. "And perhaps—it will not be long—" she glanced out of the door—"before I can repay you—to some extent. Now," she turned again to Carmen, "let us go."

The two girls left the room. Murray saw them climb into a small car. And then, before the boy driver of that car had set the engine going, he saw tearing along toward the house, like a cyclone, followed by a cloud of dust, a big black touring car.

In three seconds it swept up, roaring. And in five seconds Murray saw tumble from it, guns in hand, his father, Jose Verdugo, Pablo Sanchez and Jose's cousin Manuel.

There was a shout, a shot, from the guard in the hallway.

Another shot, and Gregorio, guarding the doorway to the yard, grunted, grabbed his right shoulder, and sat down, his pistol flying from a paralyzed hand.

Murray Kilbourne jumped to his feet.

But Vasquez was already erect, pistol covering the American.

"To the doorway," he snarled. "March."

There was nothing to do, at the moment, save obey.

Murray walked to the doorway, Vasquez's pistol at the back of his head.

"Get funny," said Vasquez, "and see what happens."

Murray did not get funny. He knew what would happen. But he also realized that he was safe—so long as Vasquez held him as hostage.

As they came to the door his father and Jose and the others lowered their guns. The tableau was self-explanatory. It was all too clear that if they wanted Murray to continue living, Vasquez must be given his liberty.

He told them that, in words which were not pretty.

And then, at gun-point, he marched Murray Kilbourne to where a vacant car stood. Still covering him, Vasquez climbed into the driver's seat. Looked back. Saw the four men with pistols raised again, with himself as possible target.

He pondered a moment. Shrugged.

Murray Kilbourne understood that shrug. Grinned.

"Too bad you can't take me with you," he said. "You might shoot me, if you are tired of living."

"That will be a pleasure which, I feel, will come later," growled Vasquez. "And so—until our next—and last—meeting."

He stepped on the starter, threw the clutch in, and was away in a cloud of dust. Murray watched him.

A shot crashed. The rear window of the car was shattered. But the bullet, fired by old Charlie Kilbourne, bore no other fruit than this, apuparently, for the car raced forward, straightly, and was quickly out of pistol range.

Murray Kilbourne walked toward the car about which his father and his friends were gathered.

"Hi, Dad," he said. "Hi, friends."

Then he swerved and went to the other car, where a frightened boy driver was in the front seat and Carmen and Dolores in the back.

"You girls are coming with us to La Luz," he said. "As quickly as we can get there. Vasquez is not through—yet."

Carmen and Dolores looked at each other for a moment. Then:

"You must go, dear," said Dolores. "I—I can't go. I am Vasquez's wife. And besides," she smiled oddly, "I have some business to attend to in Tijuana. You go with the others. Chico will take me back."

"But Dolores," pleaded Carmen. "You—you will be in danger. Vasquez—Vasquez is wild."

"Are you telling me, Carmen?" asked Dolores. "I have an idea that he will be even wilder somewhat later. But...Will you let Pablo go with me?"

"Pablo?" questioned Carmen. "Oh, you mean...I see. Why not? Is he a friend of yours?"

"Of course, I think, my dear," replied Dolores. "Which will probably make him a friend of mine also. Ask him, Don Murray."

Muhammed and Other Prophets

Islam and Modern Christianity

(Published By the Islamic Mission)

Rev. R. Maxwell King observes: "I have read in Moslem writings deep and tender expressions of respect and reverence (we should say, more than that, faith in him, I. M.) for Jesus that for the time I almost forgot I was not reading the words of a Christian writer. How different it is sad to say that has been the way in which Christians have spoken and written of Muhammed. Let us put it down to its true cause, ignorance (I would add 'prejudice')."

"In the West so little is known of the teachings of Islam," says a well-known Dr. of London, "that it is quite common to hear the 'man in the street' give a very distorted version, and this had led to much misunderstanding between Islamic and Christian nations."

In this booklet will be found a telling exposition of the fundamental doctrines of Islam and other important information concerning Muhammed and other Prophets, Islam and Christianity. And therefore, whether the booklet is read by a man, woman in the East, or by a Westerner, he (or she) will profit much.

The booklet contains the following chapters: Preface; Birth of Muhammed; Ishmael and Isaac; The Mighty Christ of the Testaments; The Book of Prophet Haggai; Prophecy in the Parsi Scripture; Prophecies in Hindu Scriptures;

Muhammed in the New Testament (By Prof. A. A. David). Prophets: Faith in Divine Messengers; Universality of the Institution of Prophethood; National Prophets (Jesus was the last of these national Prophets—"not sent but unto the lost sheep of the house of Israel" (Mt. 15:24);) Why Prophets are raised up? Sinlessness of Prophets; Adam, Noah, Abraham, Moses; Conception of Miracles in Islam; The Miracles of Islam; Prophecy; Intercession: God is the Real Intercessor; Intercession of the Angels; Intercession of Prophets and Believers; Finality of the Prophethood; Elijah and Jesus; of Elijah it is said in the Bible: "Elijah went up by a whirlwind into heaven" (11 Kings 2:11): Jesus was confronted with a difficulty: "And his disciples asked him, saying, Why then say the scribes that Elias must first come?" (MT. 17:10) Jesus' reply is recorded in the following word: "Elias truly shall first come . . . But I say unto you, that Elias is come already, and they knew him not, but have done unto him whatsoever they listed . . . Then the disciples understood that he speak unto them of John the Baptist" (MT. 17:11-13), and John the Baptist was called Elias in prophecy because it had been said of him:

"And he shall go before him in the spirit and power of Elias" (Lk. 17). Jesus was believed to be God in the strength of metaphorical expressions; The epithet "son of God" was freely used in Israelite literature, and was always taken allegorically. The term occurs as early as Gen. 6:2 where the "sons of God" are spoken of as taking the daughters of men for wives. It occurs again in Job 1:6 and 38:7, and good men are no doubt meant in both places. In Ex. 4:22 and many other places, the Israelites are spoken of as the children of God: "Israel is my son, even my first born."

The expression is used in the same metaphorical sense in the Gospels. Even in the fourth Gospel, where the Divinity of Christ is looked upon as finding a bolder expression than in the synoptics, Jesus Christ is reported as saying in answer to those who accused him of blasphemy for speaking of himself as the son of God: "It is not written in your law, I said ye are gods? If He called them gods, unto whom the word of God came, and the scripture cannot be broken; say ye of him, whom the Father hath sanctified and sent into the world, Thou blasphemest, because I said I the Son of God? (Jn. 10:34-36). (For full details, read the booklet).

Modern Christianity: The Religion of Sacrament and the Religion of Sermon. It was Bacchus who said that he was the Alpha and Omega of the world, and he come to redeem humanity by his blood. . . .

The Ancient Legends:

We Muslims are in no way behind others in our love for the great Nazarene, and the same love actuates me to write these pages in order to create a sort of reconciliation between his two sects of followers, the Muslims and the Christians.

At the appearance of Jesus there were temples without end dedicated to gods like Apollo or Dionysus among the Greeks. Hercules among the Romans, Mithra among the Persians, Adonis and Attis in Syria and Phrygia; Osiris, Isis and Horus in Egypt; Baal and Astarte among the Babylonians and Carthaginians and so forth. All these Deities were sun-gods, and of all or nearly all of them, as Edward Carpenter says, it was believed that:—(1) They were born on or very near Christmas Day. (2) They weer born of a Virgin Mother. (3) and in a cave or under-ground chamber. (4) They led a life of toil for mankind. (5) They were called by the names of Light Bringer, Healer, Mediator, Saviour and Deliverer. (6) They were, however, vanquished by the power of Darkness. (7) They descended into Hell or the underworld. (8) They rose again from the dead, and became the pioneers of mankind to the Heavenly World. (9) They founded commonions of Saints and Churches, to which disciples were received by baptisms (10) They were commemorated by Eucharistic meals. The Nativity; The Christmas; The Cross etc., etc.

Islam: Its Prominent Features. The object of Divine Revelation—Lieutenancy of God and human civilization: The research of Science; No one now takes the universe for a "three-storyed building of heaven . . ."; The Divine Economy has blessed man with the power of discernment; Jesus a true reformer from God, saw the real uplifting of man in his coming under the Divine Colours; True baptism does not consist of dipping in water; This is just a symbol; It consist, as the final Revelation, the Holy Koran, afterwards explained, in dyeing oneself in the colours of God.

Worship: A true means of human exaltation, How Worship becomes abused; The House of God at Mecca (Exodus 20:24-25-26); Black Stone (Ps. 118:22), (MT. 21:43), (Dan. 2:45); No Muslin ever dreams of looking upon the Kaaba as a symbol of God; The rounds round the Kaabe signify the pilgrim's prepared ness to walk in the path of God; The Black Stone was put there by the Patriarch Abraham as a monument to the advent of the Holy Prophet Muhammed, and Muslins show it respect just as to any other national monument; Just as a good American would raise his hat while passing by a national monument, a Muslin kiss it.

The Five Pillars of Islam; Prayer: Outlined Purification as a prelude to prayer Prohibited food; Intoxicating liquor. Islam and Woman: The wearing of the veil is a custom which was not established by Muhammed, nor by the Koran. The Koran never prohibited woman going out of their houses for their needs. The real restriction in the verses: 30-31 of the Ch. 24, is that both men women should when they meet each other—if it be discussed by a religious point of view—should cast down their looks, but there is an additional restriction in the case of women that they should not display their ornaments with the exception of "what appears thereof." It (the seclusion) is a custom so old that its origin is lost in antiquity. In the syriac version of the Didascelia Apostolorum supposedly compiled by the Apostles at Jerusalem in the third century in the original Greek, (English translation by R. Hugh Connolly, p. 26) we read, "And when thou walkest in the street, (referring to the Christian women) cover thy head with thy robe, that by reason of thy veil thy great beauty may be hidden. And adorn not thy face; but walk with downcast looks, being veiled." The Flight of Muhammed. The Prophet's Wars: Compulsion in Religion intended; Fighting allowed conditionally; To establish religious freedom, to stop all religious persecution; to protect the houses of worship of all Religions, mosques among them. Here are a few quotations from the Holy Book—The Koran:

"And had not been Allah's repelling some people by others, there would have been pulled down cloisters and churches and synagogues and mosques in which Allah's name is much remembered." (22:4). "And fight with them until there is no more persecution and all religions are for Allah." (8:39); Peace to be preferred; war was waged on Muslims; Relations with Non-Muslims; It is sometime asserted that the Koran forbids relations of friendship with the followers of other religions. How could a Book which allows a man to have as his wife a woman following another religion (5:5), say in the same breath that no friendly relations can be had with the followers of other religions? The loving relation of husband and wife is the friendliest of all relations. What Jesus was contemplating from his enemies, when he delivered his well-known Sermon on the Mount to his people, became materialized in the days of the Prophet.

Who is a true Savior? The essentials of the Prophethood of Muhammed. The Miracles of Muhammed. The Valley of Becca and Hill of Moria (Ps. of David 84:6). Paran (Den. 33:21) The Villages of Kedar (Isa. 42:11-12) etc., etc.

QUIT TRUCKING LIQUOR, DAVEY RECOMMENDS

Urges Miller to Shift Present System or Have Distillers Deliver Own Product.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — Gov. Martin L. Davey, in a letter to State Liquor Director J. W. Miller, today recommended that the state "get out of the trucking business entirely."

The governor referred to the liquor truck contract between the liquor department and Shaw Transport, Inc. During the recent senate graft investigation, it was brought out that Shaw Transport contracted to transport liquor for 17 cents a case but paid another firm 11½ cents a case to do the actual hauling.

Gov. Davey said there were two alternatives to correction of the condition exposed by the senate graft committee.

Urges Revision.

"The first is a prompt revision of the existing contract on the basis of a fair return to the contractor," Gov. Davey wrote. "This could be accomplished by agreement, on the threat of cancellation of the contract itself.

"The other alternative is for the state to go out of the trucking business entirely. Why should your department transport the goods of the distillers from the warehouse to the state stores and agencies? The state should be engaged in as few business enterprises as possible. It is better public policy to force the distillers to deliver their own wares, and revise their prices to include the cost of warehousing and trucking."

The governor wrote that "in spite of the fact that this contract represented a saving of $50,000 a year over the one which we inherited, it has been disclosed that the new contract was sub-let at a price which yields an unfair profit."

He commended Miller for forcing distillers to warehouse their own products.

JAILED IN FIGHT

Man With Broken Arm to Face Cutting to Wound Charge.

A 37-year-old colored man lodged in city jail with a broken arm will face Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch in municipal court tomorrow on a charge of cutting with intent to wound.

Harvey Day, rear of 132½ North Adams street, was arrested Saturday night after police had been called to 152 North Adams street on the complaint that a man was lying on the back porch with a broken arm. At the same time they were told that Charles Holiday, 40, of 146 North Adams street, had been stabbed.

Both men taken to the General hospital in the police cruiser said they had engaged in an altercation in which Holiday had been stabbed and Day knocked to the ground.

Both men were treated at the hospital. Holiday was released and Day was taken to jail where charges were filed by Holiday.

What Is Your News IQ.?

(By Associated Press)

Each question counts 20; each part of a two-part question, 10. A score of 60 is fair; 80, good. Answers on Page 14.

1. Identify this noted prisoner. Why did he recently make a speech outside of prison?

2. The Interstate Commerce commission authorized an increase in most freight rates of from 5 to 10 per cent, but the railroads wanted a larger boost. True or false?

3. In a recent Mediterranean naval battle, who lost a cruiser—the Spanish insurgents, or the loyalists?

4. Has Czechoslovakia alliances with (a) France and Italy, (b) Russia and Great Britain, or (c) France and Russia?

5. Did the Bureau of Standards ask congress to define the inch as longer or shorter than the present standard? How much?

FIGHTS SALE OF POWER TO REA

Former Norwalk Mayor Will Seek Referendum at Fall Election.

Seeking a referendum at the fall election on the validity of the sale of power by the Norwalk municipal light plant to the REA, former Mayor Cort M. Schrock of Norwalk had announced today that he will circulate petition in that city before March 25, final filing date.

The Norwalk plant last week signed a contract with the federal rural electrification agency to furnish current at a minimum rate of nine mills for a line into southern Huron and northern Richland counties.

Schrock obtained 381 signatures on petitions circulated previously, while only 279 are needed. New petitions will be necessary, however, because city council increased the rate from nine to 13 mills as the result of protests that the former rate was too low.

Observation From Mars.

THAT mythical Man from Mars was used the other day by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler in his annual report on the work of the division of intercourse and education of the Carnegie Endowment for Peace. A Martian of any intelligence or sensibility could only be shocked by the panorama on earth.

"He would see," said Dr. Butler, "an unbelievable incompetence and an unparalleled public immorality in regard to practically everything which relates to national and international life and relations. He would hear vigorous, emphatic and oft-repeated declarations in favor of prosperity and peace, accompanied almost day by day by acts and policies the effect of which is to make both prosperity and peace, whether national or international, wholly impossible.

"He would see every constructive step toward the improvement of social, economic and political conditions and relationships fought by empty and barren formulas and by a spirit of self-interest, of immediate gain-seeking at the price of permanent satisfaction and happiness, and by zest in getting something for nothing. He would see work, which is one of the greatest of human blessings, frowned upon and treated as if it were itself an evil thing to be reduced to the lowest possible limitations."

It is all painfully true. But the discerning Martian would also see many individuals and organizations working tirelessly and selflessly to counteract these evils. If he should come back repeatedly he might even find changes for the better being effected slowly but steadily. The world is in a mess now, but many people are aware of the fact and want to do something about it.

They Wouldn't Disarm.

THOSE transcripts of early White House press conferences, publication of which has now begun, throw an interesting light on the American situation. They serve to remind other nations how in 1933 and 1934 our government was working for disarmament in a militarized world, as it had done a dozen years before. Much of the matter has not been published previously.

In one of those conferences, it develops, the president told the newspaper men that he was placing our country "100 per cent behind the idea of taking the first step in the removal of weapons of offensive warfare," such as gas, heavy mobile artillery, bombing planes and the huge tanks known as "land battleships." This was at the same time that Premier Ramsay MacDonald was urging Europe to disarm. "Consultative pacts" and other measures were proposed by both governments, the president seconding MacDonald's efforts in Geneva along that line. He explained "off the record," to American newspaper men in May, 1933, that "if all the nations agree to set up some kind of machinery for consultation in the event of an act of aggression, we will be very glad to have somebody there to consult with."

The other nations went ahead arming, while this country lagged behind in its armament plans and did not even build many of the warships authorized by congress. Finally Britain was driven to rearmament, and now our own government is starting a big naval building program. And as this is done, governments that refused peaceful co-operation growl about "American militarism."

Domestic Science for Boys.

TWENTY-TWO boys in the high school at Muscatine, Ia., are taking a special domestic science course established at their request. They want to learn to cook for a variety of reasons. Some of them plan to go to college and live at co-operative dormitories, and figure that knowing how to do their own cooking will be useful. Others say they already help with the cooking at home and want to know more about the scientific side of the choice and preparation of foods. Still others expect to use their new skill on camping trips. A few say it is simply a hobby.

In a small village high school in another state the boys and girls have switched classes for a few weeks. The boys are studying cooking and serving in the cafeteria at lunch time: the girls are learning to use tools in manual training classes.

Masculine cooks are not new. There have long been men chefs in hotels and restaurants, male camp cooks, male army cooks, male cooks at hot dog stands. It is surprising, however, to find boys interested in domestic science classes, where a great deal more than cookery is taught these days. If they learn about dish-washing and marketing and budgeting and balanced diets, life should be easier for many mothers and future wives.

Still Destroying Forests.

THIRTY YEARS after Gifford Pinchot and Theodore Roosevelt began to awaken the American people to the ruinous depletion of our forests, the president says in a message to congress:

"We are still exploiting our forest land. Forest communities are still being crippled, still being left desolate and forlorn. Watersheds are still being denuded. Fertile valleys and industrial cities below such watersheds still suffer from erosion and floods. We are still liquidating our forest capital, still cutting our accessible forests faster than they are being replaced."

In the privately owned forest lands that still contribute 96 per cent of our forest products, he reports, cropping operations prevent proper regrowth. A great part of the cut-over area has become tax-delinquent and "much of it is forming a new but almost worthless no man's land."

We must confess that they handle such things better in Europe. That is doubtless because the nations there are older, and have been compelled to take care of their forests for timber crops and water supply and soil conservation. But we seem to learn and apply with pitiful slowness the lessons they have learned.

Now a young fellow comes into the office and confesses that he's plotting a matrimonial anschluss.

Why do women work? For the same reason that men work. They have to.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

BUSINESS is beginning to look up a bit—in the heavy industries. Government dam building and other projects furnish the chief reason. This may be termed "government spending," but the projects all are permanent improvements, adding to the assets of the nation.

At any rate, these orders are causing the wheels to begin to turn again.

Furthermore, federal aid to municipalities is helping cities to make needed improvements.

Public improvements, contrary to general belief, are far behind what they should be. The reason? Governments—federal, state, city—have had to spend all available cash on relief. The problem is to find something that will keep men at work.

It may come out of the world evolution now under way.

TUT! TUT!

The Affaire Whitney is spoken of in sad undertones in Wall Street. The man who for five terms was president of the stock exchange has confessed to so many misdeeds that Wall Street imagines he went wrong from shock—share shock.

Mention of him is met with a "Tut! tut! An isolated case. Too bad. Nice fellow. Seems impossible. Something surely went wrong with him."

It did, to the extent of a million or so, of other people's money.

In spite of the tut-tutting, Wall Street is in for a tightening of the screws. Mr. Whitney, it seems, had an overwhelming belief in America's desire to drink applejack. (No, this is not a funny story; it is the sad truth.) Mr. Whitney promoted a company, he "cornered" the stock in the company, and, alas, it fell instead of rising, because Americans didn't drink enough applejack.

(What is applejack, anyway?)

The company then began turning out whisky—but too late. Mr. Whitney already had borrowed hundreds of thousands of dollars with other people's securities entrusted to him.

(Why do people entrust securities to a Wall Street broker, however honest and upright he may be? A broker is in a precarious business—gambling, no less.)

Well, anyway, Wall Street now is thinking up some new rules. If they aren't written into law, they will be violated, of course.

CHANGES?

My information on what's wrong with Wall Street does not come from radicals or anti-Wall Streeters. It always comes from the most conservative financial news sources.

One of the new rules suggested would prohibit trading in cornered stocks.

And another rule, further away no doubt, would force companies to give complete statements to their stockholders. Investors in the majority of companies today not only have no voice, but can get little information on the actual status of a company or the efficiency of its management.

THE SUN COMES OVER THE MOUNTAIN!

Reactions To Hull's Speech On U. S. Policy

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Cordell Hull's speech before the National Press club dealing with the American attitude toward world conditions of today is being commented on throughout Washington and undoubtedly in all capitals abroad as an administration utterance of major importance.

Perhaps the unofficial fashion of its delivery added to its impressiveness.

It, of course, was recognized that it had White House sanction.

It also was obvious from the fact of its broadcast over the whole globe that foreign governments were intended to accept it as a declaration of international policy of the United States from the very fountain head.

A DIPLOMATIC SPEECH

It was a diplomatically worded talk, to be sure.

The secretary did, indeed, refer to the present trend toward world-wide chaos—a threatened return to medieval night and in a general way he spoke of this danger as existent in Europe and the Orient.

However, he mentioned no national names.

He mentioned neither Germany, Italy nor Japan.

He left them in such a position that if they chose to resent his remarks he might answer that no country which did not deem the shoe a good fit need put it on.

Nevertheless, the folk he had in mind were clearly enough designated.

SOME APPLAUDED, SOME DIDN'T

Probably not an embassy or legation in Washington was unrepresented in the Press Club auditorium.

The Germans, Italians and Japanese did not applaud, or only perfunctorily. They seemed to wish they had not come, though they might have known what to expect.

The British, French and Chinese guests were enthusiastic. So were the staffs of the smaller European legations — Dutch, Scandinavian, etc. Isolationists from Capitol Hall—congress sent a big delegation to hear the speech—likewise looked glum, for Secretary Hull's philosophy is the reverse of theirs.

SEES INTERDEPENDENCE

The secretary in short is an internationalist of a sort.

I always knew it since away back when he was a representative and later a senator.

His motto is that a single country—even a big one—cannot thrive in the midst of a disordered, unprosperous world; all must be happy or no one can be.

I once asked him as a senator, "While international good relations naturally are best, couldn't the United States, self-sufficient as it is, be reasonably comfortable altogether independently?" To which he rejoined, "I would say that it might get along, but most uncomfortably."

ECONOMICS FOREMOST

Later, as secretary of state he told me, "When you used to interview me in the senate office building we discussed economics. Here in the state department I find that international economics are at the bottom of all international friendships and classes. Economics evidently rule the world."

That was the underlying theme of his Press club speech.

A PEACE LOVER

Cordell Hull essentially is a pacifist, as his recent talk indicated. Yes, a pacifist who relies on a big navy and decries neutrality legislation on the ground that "overpacifism" defeats its own end. He said so in his press address.

Some critics question this doctrine. All the same, Hull is a wonderful secretary of state.

And that Press club chat of his rang around the globe.

Young America Says---

Society Is Making Criminals

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

"TEN YEARS!" snaps the Judge.

A man slumps in his chair. A woman chokes on a sob. Presently, a cell door clangs—and a convict's rap begins...

THEN WHAT? Society is "justly punishing" the man. But how about the helpless woman and children he has left behind—what of them? IS IT FAIR OR INTELLIGENT TO BREAK AND BRAND THE INNOCENT ALONG WITH THE GUILTY?

JESSE CRAWFORD asks — and no man has a better or more bitter right to know of what he speaks. For Jesse is a prisoner in Michigan's State penitentiary at Marquette. And this modern "slaughter" of the innocents" comes close to his own life.

"Dear Miss Robinson:

"Don't you think there should be a law to provide for the families of incarcerate men? I don't mean support them, but at least see that they are given work. It might seem to imply extra expense at first, but in the long run it would greatly reduce the cost of crime—and the blot which is left on a civilized nation by our present disregard for the suffering of helpless women and children.

"At present, families not only suffer for loss of their provider, but the wives and children are refused employment because they are "related to a con." I know of one young wife whose husband—he was no more than a careless kid—was sent up. She was left penniless, with two kids. Welfare aid was insufficient — she went tramping hungry through the snow, only to be turned away from every home she knew because her husband was a convict.

"Finally, she found a job. It wasn't much, but it gave her and the kids food and shelter. But while doing this, the children roamed the streets, and became familiar with the ways of the underworld. Not long after this they ended up in a juvenile detention home—a breeding place for criminals, a place which spreads far worse evil than ever it extracts, and brands a child forever.

"SO, INSTEAD OF HAVING TO SUPPORT ONE CRIMINAL, SOCIETY HAD SEVERAL MORE...SIMPLY BECAUSE IT HADN'T MADE ANY SENSIBLE RULE FOR GUIDING THE FAMILY IT HAD BROKEN UP.

"As things go now, Society is deliberately MAKING CRIMINALS. No child can be expected to grow up straight in broken, branded homes. They become ignorant and fever-minded, and inevitably drift into crime."

Jesse Crawford—aged 24,

"FEVER-MINDED"—I've never heard a better expression than that for hot and delirious thinking of desperate youth. And I'm with Jesse 100 per cent, in his protest against our stupid and unfair treatment of "prison widows" and families. Perhaps his words will start a movement toward a more civilized program.

And now another protest, but from a far happier place. Madge Conover of Branchville, New Jersey, speaks up in defence of farm life. She says—

"I'M A FARM WOMAN AND PROUD OF IT! I'm tired of hearing about the 'farmer's miserable existence'...and sick of hearing farmers peeve about how little they get for their crops, while, at the same time, they refuse to take a chance on new methods, new produce. And I'm sickest of all over hearing farm women whine about the dullness and monotony of their lot...and how they 'grow old and lose their looks before their time for lack of luxuries.'

"The truth is, farm life can be just as happy and colorful as the people in it wish to make it. If we'd put half as much thought into finding ways to help ourselves, as we do into pitying ourselves, we'd be sitting pretty.

"AND IF PEOPLE WERE AS LAZY AND CARELESS AT ANY OTHER JOB AS FARMERS ARE AT THEIRS, THEY TOO WOULD SUFFER!

"Farmers have endless opportunities. There are farm organizations for the men, Home Demonstration Agents for the women. Let's take advantage of these opportunities and quit knocking and pitying ourselves. We're lucky—if we'd only admit it!"

Madge Conover—25 years,
Branchville, New Jersey.
($10 Prize Winner.)

That's telling 'em, lady! And that was the spirit which once made the American Farmer the most respected and admired citizen on earth. Now the whole country's crying over him — including himself!

Last, that much disputed subject — GOVERNMENT LOTTERIES. Our current "hottest subject." For or agin' them? Let's hear—

"Dear Miss Robinson:—

"There is one source of revenue which our government has never benefited from, and I don't see why. I feel sure that many people agree with me when I say that the United States government should legalize lotteries and run some itself.

"Now, I realize that gambling isn't strictly all right in the moral sense, BUT what is the point in shutting our eyes to the obvious truth that it is done extensively in this country? Gambling is one of the chief weaknesses in man's make-up, so why shouldn't our national government benefit by it?

"Other governments with more practical and materially minded officials have long since acknowledged this weakness and receive plentiful monetary returns for this acknowledgment. Our country needs money. Our people are gamblers. Well?

"Sincerely,
" Herbert Harrigan, jr.—16 years,

FAIR ENOUGH

Tom Mooney—Loyal Admirer of Stalin

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

SAN FRANCISCO—Tom Mooney is a loyal admirer of Josef Stalin. He defends the slaughter of the heretics in Moscow, on the ground that they were plotting against the safety of the government, and indorses a government which readily imprisons men for their political beliefs.

Therefore, if Mooney had been treated according to the Golden Rule in California he would have been a dead man many years ago. Therefore, also, he would seem to be in honor bound to stay in San Quentin Prison as long as he can, a prisoner for his principles, refusing pardon and resisting expulsion by force.

Pegler

Instead, however, Mooney constantly demands a pardon and, with the backing of Communist organizations and of that element of simple-minded liberals who seduce easily, denounces the state of California for descending to the level of his beloved Moscow. It is confusing, because if Mooney were consistent he would perceive in his own persecution the first glimmering of the dawn of his cherished beliefs.

GUARDS RELAX VIGILANCE

It is unlikely that a political prisoner in Moscow would enjoy the guest status that Mooney occupies in San Quentin Prison. He is a special case. He may receive journalists in the visiting room and spend an hour or more arguing the absoluteness of the existing form of government and predicting the early rise of a new system.

As he talked on and on in a quiet voice the guard in sight was an elderly man who stood off out of earshot, apparently unconcerned with Mooney's remarks—doubtless an old and monotonous story to the staff by now. There was no screen or any vigilant peering lest he receive saws, weapons or other contraband.

He is a celebrity, and although he calls himself a pure idealist, he expressed no pity for any of the 5000 murderers, thieves and miscellaneous offenders, guilty or innocent, whose suffering and denial are as painful as his, and in most cases worse. Eugene Debs, with whom Mooney once campaigned, was sorry for all men locked away in cages, but Mooney is self-centered and concerned only with the case of Mooney the martyr.

Not once in more than an hour did he, on his own initiative, mention the name of his forgotten and neglected co-defendant in the Preparedness Day bombing case of 1916, Warren K. Billings, who has been in prison as long as he has. If Mooney is innocent so is Billings.

FAIL TO MENTION BILLINGS

The only sympathy he could spare from himself was expressed for dynamiters involved in The Los Angeles Times case. He thinks himself a greater martyr than Capt. Dreyfus, forgetting, perhaps that Dreyfus spent his prison years in a foul and distant island settlement under close guard with no means of appealing to public opinion.

Mooney has spent his time in San Francisco, has been allowed to see Mrs. Mooney on the regular visiting days and has been able to conduct political propaganda from the prison.

I mentioned a demonstration in his behalf at the Olympic Stadium in Los Angeles on the closing day of the Olympic program in 1932, and Mooney brightened with pride as he boasted that he had organized and directed that from the prison. He was mildly disappointed when I insisted that the demonstrators had mistimed their act and thus had failed to mar the solemnity of the final moments for the 105,000 Americans who were deeply moved, some of them to tears, by the beauty of the ceremony.

Let's Look Around

A City Made Famous by Strawberries.

—By G. J. KOCHENDERFER

WINTER HAVEN, Fla.—Here is one of the smaller Florida cities that deserves study as an example of the possibility of combining the attraction needed to draw tourist business and also profiting from its advantageous location in the center of the state's most productive citrus fruits area.

In consequence, Winter Haven—with a population approaching 10,000—not only points with pride to the excellent fishing and water sports made available by the hundred lakes within a six-mile radius of the city, but also makes claim that one-tenth of Florida's entire orange and grapefruit crop is shipped from here each year.

Big annual event in Winter Haven is the Florida Orange festival, extending through a full week the latter part of January and estimated this year to have attracted 84,000 visitors. Depressing, of course, is the fact that citrus prices are just now the lowest they have been for a number of years—attributed to the "recession" prevalent in a number of the northern states that provide an extensive market.

It is here also that the Columbus Red Birds do their training through March.

Our stopover in Winter Haven also provided first convenient opportunity to see "In Old Chicago," which will probably be accorded place among this year's best pictures. Depicting early-day Chicago and leading up to a quite stupendous portrayal of that city's memorable fire in 1871, this picture appears to have everything to attract and please capacity crowds wherever it is shown. It's one of the few pictures you might care to see a second time.

AS Mobile has become distinguished by its Bellingrath Gardens and its Azalea Trail, this Winter Haven vicinity is gaining increasing attention among tourists as the location of the Florida Cypress Gardens, which have been developed amazingly during the three years that elapsed since we caught a first glimpse of them.

Here, in a natural setting of mammoth cypress trees, rooted under water along the edge of Lake Eloise, a few years have sufficed to produce a veritable tropical wonderland, with cypress block paths leading from one alluring scene to another, each providing charm for the casual visitor and vast enjoyment for those interested in botanical study.

With the constant effort toward increased beautification there is every likelihood that Cypress Gardens will soon be on the "must" list of all tourists who are anxious not to miss any of Florida's real charm spots.

COMING to Winter Haven from St. Petersburg, across Gandy bridge and through busy Tampa, where several former Mansfielders are now located — William Simpson, druggist; Dr. Earl R. Oberlin, dentist, and Harold H. Gifford, auto accessories and service—there is need for at least a brief visit in Plant City. If you have ever heard of Plant City it has probably been in connection with strawberries, for this is the largest winter strawberry production center and marketing place in the world and the annual Strawberry Festival, held here at the peak of each season—the latter part of February or early in March—is made a gala occasion that attracts visitors from far and wide.

Starting with small shipments just before Christmas, the strawberry crop from this region pours northward in increasing volume through January and February—with this season's estimated total being in excess of ten million quarts. Producers are paid cash for their berries when delivered here for shipment, the price being determined by bids, which run around an average of 10 cents a pint box for the quality of berries that can be shipped.

Strawberry culture in this section was started in a small way about forty years ago. Soil conditions proved excellent for strawberry-growing and it is now estimated that about 1,500 farmers in this vicinity produce from half an acre to five acres of strawberries each year—which makes a mighty nice cash crop.

As it seemed quite the thing to taste oysters a la Rockefeller in New Orleans, and stone crabs in Clearwater, it also came about that Plant City could not be left behind without a serving of their strawberry shortcake—a much featured delicacy in that city, even to the final days of the season.

LAKELAND, with a population above 20,000, is another of the thriving and progressive business and resort cities of this highly important central ridge section of Florida.

Seat of co-educational Florida Southern college, it is boasted that this is the only educational institution in America that has a citrus grove on its campus.

Lakeland's central location on the Florida peninsula makes it an attractive convention city and its numerous lakes makes yachting a favorite sport, with a winter regatta as an annual event of importance.

In addition to the customary active chamber of commerce, so much in evidence in Florida cities, Lakeland is fortunate in having developed an aggressive and enthusiastic Junior Chamber of Commerce, which maintains offices, with a full-time secretary, has a membership of around two hundred and carries on a program of its own. Just now the junior organization is conducting an industrial survey; maintaining two stands at which orange juice is served free to visitors, and promoting a highway safety campaign which includes agitation for legislation that will keep cattle and other live stock off the roads—this being among the annoyances and dangers common to several southern states.

What is termed a "million dollar civic center" is one of the show places of Lakeland, with a steadily developing beautification program. Much of Florida's attractiveness will be missed by tourists inclined to stay close to either of the coasts.

RIGHT TO FREE WORSHIP SEEN HITLER PERIL

Dictators Defeat Selves By Opposition From Supressed Peoples, Writer Says.

(AP Foreign Affairs Writer)
By DeWITT MACKENZIE

NEW YORK—One of the questions which appears to be uppermost in the minds of most folk is whether any force short of concerted military intervention, is likely to keep Dictator Adolf Hitler from goose-stepping straight into fulfillment of his plan for domination of Europe.

This query has been encountered continually by the writer ever since the Nazi chieftain's amazing annexation of Austria, unimpeded by anything stronger than pleas and protests. The latest occasion was during a discussion of foreign affairs at the largely-attended annual meeting of member newspapers of the Associated Press at Columbus, Ohio, over the week-end.

There is a rapidly growing feeling that if Hitler proceeds with as much discretion as he did in the case of Austria, and doesn't openly challenge the powers to violent combat, he may come close to his goal.

Mus Work Fast.

The faster he can work, the better his chances, and he indicated in his Berlin speech last Friday that he needed only four years "to complete the tasks ahead in the greater reich."

Whether Nazidom, under Hitler or anybody else, would be able to maintain any such domination as he seeks is an entirely different proposition.

Leaders of democracy on both sides of the Atlantic hold that the dictatorships will defeat themselves in due course through opposition by their peoples, unless there is a decided change of policies.

The argument is that in this advanced day no civilized people will endure indefinitely complete suppression of individual liberty such as exists in the totalitarian states. They may stand for absolute regimentation for a time in the hope of escaping from desperate financial and economic difficulties, but in the end they will turn against the bondage.

Particularly dangerous is interference with the rights of the individual to worship as he pleases. Our Pilgrim Fathers came to America to escape religious persecution. Even savages will fight for the right to worship their heathen gods after their own fashion.

The weakest spot in Hitler's armor is the attitude of the Nazi party towards the Christian religions. The attempts being made in Germany to "Natzify" both the protestant and Catholic churches are dangerous in the extreme to the existence of the party.

Raises Vital Question.

Hitler's absorption of the Catholic country of Austria, and his evident intention to take over Czechoslovakia with its host of church goers, raises the vital question of whether he intends to alter the Nazi policy towards Christianity.

There have been indications recently that he has seen the writing on the wall and may inaugurate a regime of greater tolerance. If he doesn't he is inviting grave trouble.

Religion is a big thing in the lives of the newly absorbed people of Austria. Religious liberty was one of the fundamental laws of the republic.

Some 6,000,000 persons, or close to 91 per cent of the population of that little country, are Catholics. Most of the rest are religious, more than 295,000 being protestants and 192,000 Jews.

Out of Czechoslovakia's fifteen millions, about 11,000,000 are Catholics, more than a million are protestants, and other religions have a considerable following.

In Germany itself the Catholic and protestant churches claim close to 96 per cent of the entire population—63 per cent being protestants and 33 per cent Catholics.

This means a total of 62,000,000 persons who for nearly five years under Nazi rule have been fighting for religious freedom. He is a very daring or very foolish man who challenges such a power.

2 DIE AS TRAIN HITS GAS TRUCK

Several Others Hurt as Crash Ignites Gasoline.

WOODBRIDGE, N. J.— (INS) — Enveloped in flaming gasoline, two men were killed and several others were burned today when a Central Railroad of New Jersey train struck a heavy tank truck loaded with gasoline at a local grade crossing.

Engineer Clarence Lovell, 52, of Point Pleasant, N. J., died at the scene from burns.

The other victim, who died at Perth Amboy general hospital, was so badly burned that he could not be identified immediately.

WESTINGHOUSE HEADS CONFER

City Will Be Host to 100 of Company's Executives at Meeting Tomorrow.

Ways and means of stimulating the electrical business, a study of current conditions, and renewed emphasis on advertising promotion and sales will be considered at the regular quarterly meeting of the Westinghouse executives here tomorrow. Although these meetings were usually held at company headquarters in East Pittsburgh, the executives recently initiated the practice of holding sessions at the more important plants. A. E. Allen, local vice president, will be the host for the first Mansfield conference.

The meeting will be strictly in the nature of a "working" conference. An inspection tour of the factory will be a part of the day's activities.

Headed by Allen, various departmental executives will analyze the current market situation with its relation to potential sales.

The meeting also will provide the company's newly elected president, George H. Bucher, with an opportunity to visit the Mansfield plant. A. W. Robertson, chairman of the Westinghouse board, will be among the first officials to arrive for the conference.

Approximately 100 executives from East Pittsburgh, New York, East Springfield, Mass., Pittsburgh and other Westinghouse office will be augmented by some 25 key executives from the Mansfield works for the meeting.

A Farmer's Diary

March 20.

YESTERDAY, while waiting in my car, parked by the curb, I saw a workman with an empty lunch box under his arm, looking into the window of a flower shop. His clothes were greasy and dirty, his trousers sadly fringed below.

I was only the width of the sidewalk away, and I heard him mutter to himself as he pointed, in much excitement — "That's the one!" There was a tag with a price mark, which he read. Many times he fingered a soiled purse as greasy as his clothes, and counted and recounted a few coins, like precious things. "One nickel short," I heard him say.

He entered the open door with some misgivings, but soon I saw the clerk reach into the window and lift the fairest flower of them all. "Ninety cents," I heard him say.

"I haint got but eighty-five—an' that's the one I want to give her. Won't you let me have it?"

Slowly the clerk wrapped a tall paper around the pot, touched one eye with the back of his hand, reached into his pocket and ninety cents fell into the till. I saw the workman emerge, the lunch box under one arm, the flower pot carried in the other. But the top was torn off and his face was beaming like a child's as he looked intently at the clump of fragrant, nodding primroses.

"Where do you live?" I asked as casually as I could.

"Down by the tracks," he said. "My wife is sick and we both love primroses. When the kids are in bed my wife and me both like to sit and say nothin' —just look at these pretty flowers bloomin'. It's this kind o' livin' makes us happy."

I wish more workmen would buy primroses.

Davey Goes On Air Again, Rumors of New Fight Heard

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Governor Davey today put the final touches on his radio address scheduled for 7:45 p. m. over a state-wide network while reports were circulated in the capital that he was in disagreement with the professorial board investigating the highway department.

The governor has said he will tell the "true story of Ohio's coal purchases" in the second of a series of fireside chats tonight and answer the senate investigating committee's charges that Glenn A. Horn, state purchasing agent, disregarded the law in awarding contracts for fuel at state institutions.

Meanwhile, there were reports that the board of inquiry, consisting of two professors from Ohio State university and two from Purdue university, would recommend abolishing the post of highway director and installing a three-man highway commission.

Prof. Clyde T. Morris, of Ohio State university and a member of the board, denied the reports and also rumors that the board would recommend that highway employes be placed under civil service.

CIVIC MUSIC WEEK OPENS WITH DINNER FOR WORKERS TONIGHT

Mansfield is certain to be "music conscious" this week as a determined drive is made to enlist 1,000 members for the Civic Music association, an increase of 250 over last year's roster.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter gave impetus to the opening of the campaign today by naming this Civic Music week, and the drive itself gets under way with the opening dinner for workers tonight at Park Avenue Baptist church and headquarters established in the office of the Ohio Fuel Gas company.

The dinner at 6:30 will be attended by members of the executive committee, the board of directors, campaign workers and representatives from Ashland, Loudonville, Galion, Bucyrus, Mt. Vernon, Willard and Richland county communities.

Among the speakers tonight at the dinner will be Mrs. Mercedes Walker, representative of the Civic Concert Service, Inc., a subsidiary of National Broadcasting company of New York; Rev. David N. Roller, president of the Mansfield association; W. L. Miller, retiring president; Mrs. Paul W. Williams, general chairman of the membership campaign, and Dr. A. O. Fonkalsrud, member of the board who will take active part in the drive.

Available talent for next season will be discussed tonight and at least one outstanding artist will be decided upon.

The campaign will close Saturday and after that memberships will not be available.

Mayor Hunter issued a proclamation designating this week as Civic Music week in Mansfield, and endorsing the campaign as a "contribution to a worthwhile movement."

"Civic music makes a definite contribution to the enrichment of the cultural life of the community and deserves consideration and support from all the civic and culturally-minded citizens in this district," he said.

COST OF RELIEF BOND ELECTION SET AT $3,000

Council to Act on Proposed Issue and Three WPA Projects Tomorrow.

City council meeting in special session tomorrow night will be told that "between $3,000 and $3,500 will be necessary to finance a special election on a poor relief bond issue. At the same time legislation for the administration of relief will be acted upon along with three measures designed to provide for additional WPA work in the city.

Walter Underwood, deputy clerk at the board of elections, said today that a minimum of $3,000 would be necessary to finance a special election on the question of a relief bond issue. This cost was figured on the basis of a four-man board at each of the city's 50 precincts and would require the permission of the secretary of state. To hold the election with the regular six-man board would cost no less than $3,500. Underwoor explained.

Council Friday night deferred action on the plan of financing relief for the balance of the year until the cost of a special election could be definitely determined. City Auditor Paul L. Kelley estimated that $50,000 would be necessary to finance the burden for the next nine months.

Council turned to a bond issue as the only means of raising the necessary funds after they were told that funds from a special levy added to the tax duplicate would not be forthcoming for at least another year.

The city fathers will be asked to approve legislation creating the positions at relief headquarters and fixing the salaries of the staff along with the authorization of an appropriation of $4,000 from the unappropriated waterworks fund to provide for payment of some of the current relief bills.

In order to create more WPA jobs in the city, and release two projects already approved by federal authorities, council will vote for an appropriation of $400 to supplement the $1,100 set up for the widening of Glessner avenue at the hospital.

Meanwhile Madison township trustees who met Saturday to consider the financing of their share of the relief costs for the balance of the year were no nearer a solution today.

W. F. Beam, one of the five trustees, said the board had not decided on any means of financing the load, but that F. J. Stahlheber, clerk of the board, had been asked to obtain relief cost figures which will be considered when the board meets again next Saturday.

MEETS TONIGHT

School Board to Act On New Appropriation Measure.

The Mansfield board of education will meet at 7:30 p. m. today to act on an appropriation measure for the city's schools in 1938 to replace a temporary appropriation passed early in January.

The schedule, based on expenditures last year and requirements for 1938, is expected to be slightly higher than the $684,829 appropriated in 1937.

HEARST LEAVES BUSINESS HELM

Publisher, 75, Names Personal Attorney to Manage Vast Newspaper Holdings.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—William Randolph Hearst, 75, and "conscious of the uncertainties of life" re delinquishing active business management of his vast publishing and financial holdings.

The publisher has appointed Clarence J. Shearn, former New York supreme court justice and for years his personal attorney and political protege, to re-organize and consolidate his ramified business interests.

In his new post Shearn will act as voting trustee of the publisher's stock in American Newspapers, Inc., parent holding company for the Hearst enterprises.

Hearst, according to Poor's Manual for 1937, owns 95 per cent of the stock of his chief holding company and is trustee for the rest. Under the re-organization plans, a statement by White said, the publisher and his family "retain beneficial interest in the stock."

White said the Hearst publications employed 27,000 persons and consisted of 23 newspapers, "The American Weekly," nine magazines in this country and three in England.

He said the executive committee would direct its primary attention to the publication of newspapers and magazines and follow "a policy of gradual liquidation" as to the publisher's collateral and unrelated investments.

TALKS AT CLUB

Carl Oberlin to Review Book "The Open Door at Home."

Carl Oberlin will discuss Charles A. Beard's book "The Open Door At Home" at a meeting of the Rotary club tomorrow noon at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

The book was written by the Columbia University professor who has served as special economic advisor to foreign governments.

DEATH CLAIMS MARY E. FULTON

Native of Richland County Dies at Home of Daughter Near Bellville.

BELLVILLE — Mrs. Mary E. Fulton, 89, life-long resident of Richland county, died at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Orian Long, near Bellville, Saturday evening, after a few days' illness.

One of the 13 children of Mr. and Mrs. William Harter, Mrs. Fulton was born near Hastings, in Monroe township, on July 21, 1848.

After her marriage to Isaac Fulton she lived for many years on the Fulton homestead farm west of Hastings. Mr. Fulton died in 1893. She was the last of her family.

Surviving are five sons, Gaylord of Ankenytown, Frank, Lucas hardware dealer, Burt, James and Harley, farmers, residing near Hastings; and three daughters, Mrs. Adam Bowers and Mrs. Myrtle Weirick of near Lexington, and Mrs. Long. Mrs. Fulton also is survived by 26 grandchildren and 30 great-grandchildren.

Brief funeral services will be held from the Long home at 1:30 Tuesday and from the Pleasant Valley Lutheran church at 2:30, with Rev. Carl Driscoll of Lucas, and Rev. E. G. Hamilton of Bellville, officiating. Burial will be made in the Monroe township cemetery near Hastings.

Don't Neglect a Cold

Rub soothing, warming Musterole well into your chest and throat.

Musterole is NOT just a salve. It's a "counter-irritant" containing good old-fashioned cold remedies—oil of mustard, menthol, camphor and other valuable ingredients.

That's why it gets such fine results—better than the old-fashioned mustard plaster. Musterole penetrates, stimulates, warms and soothes, helpful in drawing out local congestion and pain. Used by millions for 30 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All druggists'. In three strengths: Regular Strength, Children's (mild), and Extra Strong.

MISS LA DONNA BOALS MARRIED ON SATURDAY

Earl Brandenburg Weds Mansfield Girl In Single Ring Ceremony at St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran Church.

IN A FORMAL church ceremony performed by Rev. J. L. Wolf, pastor of St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran church, Saturday at 2:30 p. m., Miss La Donna Boals and Earl Brandenburg exchanged nuptial vows. They were united in marriage in a single ring ceremony. Miss Boals is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Boals, 550 Bowman street. Mr. Brandenburg is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Brandenburg, Athens.

Miss Boals approached the altar on the arm of her father. The altar was decorated with potted palms and ferns and beauty baskets of calla lilies and white snapdragons. Vocalist, Leo Hans, sang "I Love You Truly" and "Because." Miss Ina Balliet Lucas played "Indian Love Call," "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" and "Dreaming," in addition to the Lohengrin and Mendelssohn wedding marches.

For her marriage Miss Boals wore a white satin princess gown with a long train. Her veil was fingertip length and caught by orange blossom sprays. She carried an arm bouquet of lilies of the valley and gardenias tied with white tulle. Her only adornment was a string of pearls.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Mary Boals, who wore a sprig-green taffeta dress made with a tight waist and full skirt. She wore a matching bonnet and carried a bouquet of sunburst roses tied with yellow ribbon. Mrs. Boals, the bride's mother, wore a powder blue outfit with accessories in navy and her shoulder corsage was made of gardenias.

William Enlow served as best man for the bridegroom while Harvey Willsey and Floyd Bollinger were the ushers.

Out-of-town guests in Mansfield for the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. J. Lay, Delaware; Dr. Charles Down, Bowling Green; Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Hill, Athens, brother-in-law and sister of Mr. Brandenburg; Mr. and Mrs. Amos Young, Butler, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Seidel, Mrs. Aden Light, Mrs. Robert Harst and Mr. and Mrs. Dean Insco, Shelby.

A reception for the family and the bridal party was given at the Boals home after the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Brandenburg left late Saturday for a southern trip. They will be at home about March 28 at the home of Mrs. Brandenburg's parents.

Church Class Has Dinner Saturday

St. Paul's class of the South Main street Evangelical church was honored Saturday by members of the Rain or Shine class at a covered dish dinner at North Lake Park pavilion. There were 110 present.

The program consisted of several short readings following which addresses were given by Rev. C. L. Kern and Claude M. Hunter. Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Bloor sang a duet, "The Old Rugged Cross" and Miss Geraldine Harley, Miss Pauline Statler and Mrs. John Derr formed a trio and presented several vocal numbers.

Mrs. W. H. Beckley and Mrs. Floyd Grandstaff were in charge of refreshments and the program. The class will meet again at the church April 5.

University Club Has Dance At Leland Hotel

Members of the University club danced to the music of Shively-Yates orchestra in the Mansfield-Leland hotel ballroom Saturday night. There were approximately 140 present for the affair which lasted from 10 p. m. to 2 a. m.

The ballroom was decorated with spring flowers and palms. L. A. Brown was in charge of arrangements for this affair.

Ruth Beal Married To Mansfield Man In Fredericktown

In a single ring ceremony performed at noon Sunday at the First Methodist Episcopal church of Fredericktown, Edward Hall, Mansfield, and Miss Ruth Beal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Beal, Fredericktown, were married. Nuptial music was played by Mrs. Mary Dunham while the bridal party stood at the altar decorated with mixed flowers, ferns, pussy willows and an illuminated cross.

Miss Beal wore a gown of white satin and carried an arm bouquet of sun-burst roses. On her head she wore a bridal wreath of sweet peas. Her father gave her in marriage.

Attending the couple was Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hart. Mrs. Hart wore a flowered chiffon frock and carried a bouquet of daffodils, narcissus and snapdragons. A wedding dinner followed at the bride's home. Mansfielders attending the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hall and Mr. and Mrs. Neil Robinson. Mr. and Mrs. Hall are making their home at 219 Park avenue east.

Miss James Honored At Surprise Dinner Party

Miss Jeanette James was guest of honor yesterday at a surprise birthday diner. Dinner was served at a table decorated with pink and white streamers which led to favors for the guests. Cards and games were played during the afternoon.

Miss Kathryn Zimmerman, Ashland, was an out-of-town guest and Carl Willis, jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Long were others present.

Tricky Styles, Gadgets Lead Fashion Parade

The yen for gadgets and doodads that started several years ago appears to be increasing with rapidity. Notice the model above is wearing a large bug on the lapel of her blue pin-striped tailored suit. Over her shoulder is slung a tricky new bag of hide-tan calf which boasts both an inside and outside pocket. The off-the-face hat in a matching shade gives a flattering and winsome look to the young woman's face.
